

MARRIED IN WELLAND on Oct. 23, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Moldowan will reside in North Vancouver. She is the former Joanne Patricia Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Fay of Milton.

Wedding
Moldowan - Fay

White and red mums decorated Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church, Welland for the Oct. 23, 2 p.m., wedding of Joanne Patricia Fay and William Ross Moldowan, of North Vancouver. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fay of Milton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Moldowan of 146 Camrose Ave., Welland. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Hluchanuk and he was assisted by Rev. Z. Hutzutiak. The church choir sang at the wedding.

Best man was John Zmud of Toronto and usher was Robert Moldowan, brother of the groom, of Welland. Out of town guests attended the reception at the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Parish Hall in Welland. The guests came from Kitchener, Toronto, Brampton, Oshawa, Saskatchewan, Moscow, (USSR), Vancouver, Burlington, Niagara-on-the-lake, Milton and St. Catharines. The couple will reside at North Vancouver.

Empire gown
Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a delustrated peau de soie empire style gown with a detachable train. The bodice was of a delicate chantilly type lace and the gown had mouton style sleeves. She wore an elbow length veil of silk illusion and carried a bouquet of red rose and white carnations. Matron of honor was Mrs. Sandy Homewood of Toronto and bridesmaid was Sandy Fay, sister of the bride of Milton. Mauve dresses They were gowned in mauve dresses and carried white mums with white yellow centres. They wore matching wide brimmed

CORRECTION — The printer's gremlins were at work last week on my recipe!!! Please change the amount of shortening in the Pumpkin Bars of last week to one-half of a cup of shortening. An experienced cook would know it wasn't right but it's the beginners.

Behold, a certain man prospered in the affluent society in which he lived, and because he was a godly man who feared the Lord, he laid aside from all he earned a portion for the work of God. This he did gladly and with an open hand. In like manner also he paid his taxes, and medical insurance, and pension plan, and social security, and all that was required of him. But withal his goods increased and he lived in comfort with the wife of his youth, and with his sons and daughters.

And it came to pass one day that he traversed the supermarket, as was his wont, to buy meat for his family. And when he had done so, he purchased also dog food for his beagle, and bird seed for his budgie, and fish food for his fantails, and catnip for his cat. And as he paid his money, being of a merry heart, he spake unto the cashier that verily it cost as much to feed his animals as it did to feed his family.

And as he drove home, he beheld a vision. And lo, he saw the faces of those who hungered, and of those who wept, and of those who were ill. And he saw also the faces of those we served them, and who preached unto them good tidings. And he was smitten of heart and said to himself, While others suffer lack, I have enough and to spare and to spend on dog food. Verily, as God has prospered me I will no more hold the needs of Rover above the needs of others.

And in his home he set aside a vessel, and vowed a vow, saying, As I live, not only shall I set aside each week as God has prospered me, but I shall also put herein sums equal to those I spend on puppy biscuits and kitty litter. And thereafter when he bought Doggie-O or Birdie-Sing, or even Happy-Fish, he placed a like sum in the vessel which he had sanctified.

And at the end of 40 days and 40 nights he looked therein, and beheld the money how it had multiplied. And he rejoiced, saying, This is a day of good tidings. I do not well to hold my peace.

And he went unto his neighbors and shewed unto them the vessel, and instructed them. And they gathered their vessels from their houses, some of glass, some of wood and some of metal, and they did as he had done, and placed therein money, some to match the price of coffee, and some of bubble gum, and some of candy bars, and some of newspapers, and some of records, and others of Coke, and yet other goods of like kind.

And thereby learned they who want affluent people oft forget, that the needs of others, and of those who help to meet those needs, are worth at least as much as sundries.

According to a recent survey on the value of toothpastes, we have been throwing away needless money on them. Apparently a brush and water is more beneficial — and the old-fashioned toothpick for adults. I often wondered why the toothpaste was sweetened when the goodies we liked were forbidden. So if you can get your children to brush without paste, the money formerly spent that way could be put to better use. We could follow the example of man in the parable. And housewives who complain about the cost of food could take a look at their shopping baskets and count the items that aren't food. It'll surprise you. Maybe the time has come when we should ask ourselves "Do I really need this item?"

Middlebrook named to Ont. Federation

Harold Middlebrook of Milton has been named Individual Service Member to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, representing Halton and Peel Counties. He replaces Neil Armstrong. William Mahon of Campbellville has been named the new director to OFA representing Halton, to replace Denzil Lawrence of Milton who was Halton's OFA rep for many years.

Four to vote
Delegates to the OFA annual in Hamilton Nov. 22 to 24 are V. J. Lawrence, Harold Middlebrook, William Mahon and Tom Foster. Halton Federation members have been busy visiting farmers in the county, urging them to appeal their assessments. While making the calls they also signed
