Recreation . . .

"I got there just as he left." Mayor Brian Best said there was a need for professional management in the recreation field. He said he would rather hire a recreation director than spend $10,000 on another policeman.

Others have one

Hunter claimed Georgetown has 18,000 population and has just engaged a director for recreation. He wondered why Milton needs one with less than half that population. Other councillors named several smaller towns than Milton which have directors.

Councillor Mrs. M. Powys said not hiring a director was a "retrograde step" as people of all ages need assistance and guidance.

Dr. Hunter said he couldn't see putting another administrative body in the town hall without someone to supervise him. Others pointed out there were several municipal employees working without daily supervision including the town clerk and treasurer, to which Dr. Hunter replied "it's a helluva way to run a railroad."

A recreation director will "develop a program that will cost more and more," claimed Dr. Hunter. But Councillor Colin Smillie said the recreation committee will give him terms of reference and said they have always been very fair with the council.

On a vote, all councillors except Dr. Hunter and Councillor Syd Childs voted to keep the recreation director's salary in the estimates.

Let town do it

Turning to the parks board budget, Dr. Hunter felt a $500 expense for repairing the roadwork in Rotary Park could be cut. Deputy Reeve McCuaig said the only way to eliminate it was to leave the road in a sad state of repair, or turn it over to the town and let the town works department fix it.

When Dr. Hunter questioned the library board's $8,500 book budget and suggested it be cut by $500, Councillor Smillie said the library has to "keep up with the times" by offering modern reading. Mayor Best claimed Dr. Hunter was "not talking from knowledge", and said his questions should have been asked last week when the library board representatives were present at the council meeting.

Councillor Gordon Krantz complained a cut in the arena budget might mean more expensive ice time for local minor hockey teams. There are

Fast-Moving Decoy

While checking their spread of over 100 duck decoys, a waterfowl hunter and his son noticed one of the decoys moving steadily downstream. Baffled, the two sportsmen watched the decoy steadily chug away. Finally, the twosome took pursuit and eventually captured the runaway. And, to their surprise, found an 8-pound large-mouth bass underneath, trying to make lunch out of their decoy.

Honor 11 truck drivers 67 years accident-free

Eleven Milton truck drivers with a combined total of 67 years of accident-free driving were honored recently at a professional driver safety banquet held at the Estaminet in Burlington. The Oakville and District Transportation Safety Association sponsored the event.

Cecil Hunt of Robert Thomson Transport, Milton Heights, was the recipient of an 18-year accident-free certificate. Fellow Thomson drivers Lloyd Rear and Jim Mowat received awards for eight and three years without an accident, respectively.

Four at Hume
Four drivers from Hume Equipment Co. were among the recipients—owner Sherwood Hume for nine years, Peter Watson for 12, Roy Robertson for five and William Maynes for one year.

Also honored were United Co-operatives of Ontario truckers Eric Sorensen for seven years, Clarence Feenstra for two, David Crombie and Edward Irving one each.

Top driver of the year in this area was Arthur Nelson of Maris Transport, Oakville, who has a 25-year safety record.

ESQUEQUING Township Council BRIEFS

At the regular meeting Monday night, Esqueving Council:

—Passed a by-law authorizing the clerk and reeve to execute a lease with the County of Halton for .92 acres of land on Lot 21, Con. 10, where the Glen Williams war memorial has been erected.

—Accepted the tender of King-Seagrave to supply one 5½ ton hopper sander plus two flashing lights, in the amount of $2,794, subject to the approval of the Department of Transportation and Communication.

—Was informed by clerk-treasurer Delmar French there have been complaints about the condition of the old road into the township dump on the Fourth Line.

—Received a letter from solicitors for Dufferin Materials and Construction asking for an amendment to the township zoning by-law, which would enable them to operate an asphalt plant.

—Received a letter from Mrs. J. Glynn of Limehouse thanking them for their endorsement of the petition Limehouse area residents presented the Halton County roads committee. The petition asked that the environment of the area not be disturbed by the construction of a by-pass of County Road 20.

TIME

Time may be running out on you if you catch yourself saying "There's a quicker way to do it than that" or, "You don't have to turn off the machine to make an adjustment." Another common fallacy is, "I've done it this way for years and never even had a close call." When you get into this kind of attitude, you're really heading for an accident. It's just a question of time and place.

Work for funds

The Youth Council had last week asked for $800 to heat their new coffee house and council had earlier donated $450 for the first three months' rent on the building. Best said the incentive program would make such groups work for their funds instead of asking for "handouts".

If the money is not used by Sept. 1 it could be turned over to the streets and walks committee for sidewalk repairs, he felt. Some councillors disagreed with limiting the incentive fund to just two groups, and thought every organization in town should get a share of it. But several groups are already getting grants through the recreation committee.

Deputy Reeve Bob McCuaig felt many groups obtain funds from taxpayers in the community and an extra 25 per cent gift from council would be like a "surcharge". The council decided, on a 5-4 vote, to hold $1,000 in an incentive fund, but asked the administration committee to discuss next week how it should be distributed.

HERE 'n' THERE in Brief

Will restore old lime kilns

Credit Valley Conservation Authority hopes to restore the old lime kilns at the Limehouse Conservation Area on Esquesing's Fifth Line, as part of the Authority's overall long-range plan for this development. The Authority hopes the restored kilns can be used as part of an education project.

A dam at the park is also to be rebuilt as a home for wildlife, but no swimming will be allowed. Members are considering establishing a mini-trail for walkers, to run from Georgetown to Acton on the old radial line right-of-way.

Police chief resigns

Georgetown's chief of police since 1967, Harley (Bud) Lowe has resigned. He has been with the force since 1956.

The Ontario Police Commission is currently investigating the Georgetown force and a report was expected by the town's police commission this week.

The modern Canadian is one who drinks German from a Swedish glass while sitting on Danish furniture after having come home from an Italian movie in his Japanese car powered by British gasoline. Then he puts on his Scotch smoking jacket, lights a Cuban cigar, takes off his Swiss watch, hangs up his Panama hat, drinks his French wine, and picks up a ball point pen from Taiwan to write to his Member of Parliament a letter raising cane about all the money that's leaving the country.
