

St. Alban's hosts diocesan meeting

A general meeting of the Anglican Church Women was held here at St. Alban's church last Wednesday. The event was held here to co-incide with the parish's centennial year. The diocese includes Welland, Guelph, Milton, Georgetown, Hamilton and Burlington.

About 30 representatives of the A.C.W.S. of churches involved attended the meeting.

There was communion in the morning at St. Alban's and each woman had brought her own lunch. Tea and cookies were served in the afternoon by the A.C.W. members of the host church.

Local A.C.W. president Penny Bristow welcomed the group.

She will be heading the citizenship them at this conference.

Early, please

Deadline for submitting wedding stories and photos for publication in The Champion is one month after the wedding.

This policy was introduced last year in an effort to have weddings published while they are still newsworthy. The Champion does not charge a fee for printing wedding stories and photos, as many other papers do—all we ask is that you submit the story and photo as soon as possible after the wedding.

SUMMER HAZARDS

We longingly wait for warmer weather, forgetting that holiday weekends and the summer season in general are more hazardous. Did you know that around 2,000 persons have eye injuries each year, many of them leading to blindness? According to a report from Canada's Health and Welfare publication, the home is the major cause of eye accidents. Let's look at a few precautions given by the drug industry's Council on Family Health.

The Council says a major cause of eye accidents is exploding glass jars and bottles. Most substances expand under heat, and this includes the contents of glass containers that will explode if exposed to excessive heat long enough.

Glass containers should be stored at moderate temperatures. Jarred and bottled goods should be kept on low shelves or in cool rooms, or even in the refrigerator if practical. The Council warns against leaving sealed glass containers on the seat of a car where the heat build-up from the sun can make a bomb out of a jar of roasted nuts.

High-speed household appliances, home workshop tools and rotary lawn mowers are the implements most commonly involved in eye injury accidents. Children should never be allowed to play with machines as if they were toys. Tools like high-speed drills are completely beyond the strength or judgment of any youngster and should be kept out of children's hands.

Cleaning chemicals, spray paints and cleansers are also high on the list of threats to eyesight. Keep them far out of the reach of children.

Unsupervised children at play run the greatest risks of eye injury. Most eye injuries suffered by children happened outside the classroom. Main causes were falls, blows or sharp objects. The Council says toys such as BB guns, darts, sling shots and bows and arrows should only be used when an adult is supervising.

If, in spite of all your precautions, an eye accident does occur, the Council recommends these first-aid measures until a doctor can take over:

—If household chemicals enter the eye, flood the eye with water immediately and continue for 15 minutes, holding the eye under a faucet or pour cool water from a small pitcher.

—If the eye is cut do not wash with water or anything else. Protect the eye with a light pressure free dressing and get to a doctor or emergency ward of a hospital as quickly as possible. Do not, under any circumstances, try to remove anything sticking into the eye.

—If the eye has suffered a blow or is black, apply cold compresses for 15 minutes. See a doctor to determine if there is internal injury or some other complication.

—For a speck in the eye, lift upper lid over lower lid to make tears, which should wash away any irritant. If this does not work cover the eye with a light dressing and see a doctor. Do not wait to "see if it will go away." It is more apt to imbed itself further into the membrane.

You will notice that all of these aids advise "See a Doctor". If it is outside of doctor's hours, get to a hospital. There is always a doctor on call there at the emergency ward.
