New year challenge given Presbyterians

The Nassagaweya Presbyterian W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid held the first meeting of the new year at the home of Mrs. W. Kennedy on Thursday Jan. 4.

The W.M.S. Meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. W. Kennedy, with the singing of Abide with Me and a scripture reading. Correspondence included a letter from the Scott Mission expressing sincere thanks for the box of toys which had been mailed to them at Christmas. Other letters of thanks and appreciation were read from Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Lamb.

The convener, Mrs. Norris, opened her program with a hymn and reading from the third chapter of John's gospel. She gave some reflections of the past-year and stated the need is great for pressing on to better things in the new year.

The Ladies Aid, under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Henderson, dealt with several matters of business, among them the planning of the spring and fall luncheons and setting up committees for same.

The roll call was answered by payment of fees and offers of homes for the meetings of 1973. The hostess served lunch and all enjoyed a social time.

Doctor becomes hypnotism specialist

An Oakville doctor, Peter Berndt whose interest in hypnotism has grown into full-time practice, was guest speaker at last week's meeting of the University Women's Club.

There are a lot of misconceptions about hypnotism, Dr. Berndt told the group meeting in Pineview school. A graduate of the University of Toronto he wasn't familiar with the subject until he attended a workshop on it. He recalled being concerned medication was doing little to restore to good health some of his patients with recurring migraine, sleeplessness or nervous tension. He introduced hypnotism into his general practice a few years ago, and now has had to completely give up general practice in favor of his unusual specialty.

These training workshops are available only to doctors, psychiatrists or dentists, he pointed out.

Acceptance grows

Acceptance of this kind of treatment is growing he finds. Actually hypnosis has a long history, including witch doctors, Druidic priests and eastern healers. It fell into disrepute and was used as entertainment.

What is it? No one knows exactly, Dr. Berndt said as he reviewed various effects attained.

Much success

For his intrigued listeners he described the successful use of hypnotism for phobias, compulsions, tension, insomnia, allergies, dental work, childbirth, weight loss and addictions. Members had many questions to ask.

Work at jail

During the evening Peggy Palmer also spoke to the group on the work being done in Milton jail in counselling and entertainment in an effort to form contacts with the community.

Buses avoid icy roads

Although schools stayed open, some of the buses transporting rural students to schools in North Halton encountered difficulties Thursday after a freezing rain the night before made driving rather treacherous.

Some buses didn't bother tackling the country sideroads, but picked up students along the highway routes.

Kilbride man posted to RCMP at Kingston

Doug Ford, a former Kilbride area resident is now stationed at Kingston with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Ford, the son of Wilbert Ford, heads up a special drug control centre in the city.

He recently co-ordinated a four month undercover investigation which climaxed with raids on 23 Kingston area locations and led to the arrest of 34 city and area residents. Warrants detail 71 charges of trafficking in drugs alleged to have occurred in recent months.

Ford has been with the RCMP for 15 years and three of these years have been served in plain clothes. He trained in Regina and later guarded the home of John Diefenbaker when he was Prime Minister. Prior to taking over the Kingston detail, Ford worked in Ottawa at the RCMP data control centre.

Congratulations!

Charlie says even if you are at a loss for words, your congratulations or praise for a job well done will mean that much more with flowers. On a special occasion flowers or plants are appreciated by young or old, men or women.

Tips to those who received Poinsettias

It will drop leaves if soil is too dry, too wet or exposed to drafts. Keep it near a warm sunny window, away from radiators or registers. Water when the soil is dry to your touch. If leaves fall stop watering and store in a cool dry place until spring.
