Giving pens for courtesy

Whenever they see an act of courtesy, members of Georgetown Police Department will be giving a free pen to the courteous motorist. The give-away program is a farewell gesture by the department which fades out of existence at the end of this year.

Thought-provoking lecture given WMS

The Robertson Auxiliary W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. W. Marshall, Parkway Dr. for the thankoffering meeting. Fifteen ladies and one visitor answered the roll call with "thanks". Mrs. S. Lockie presided.

The two hymns "Tis the blessed hour of prayer" and "Count your blessings" were sung and greatly enjoyed. A social half hour followed with Mrs. S. Lockie, Mrs. Ada Agnew and Mrs. Alex Watson assisting Mrs. Marshall.

The president announced that the Presbyterian bale had been packed and sent to Kenora Fellowship Centre. The members were reminded of the area rally to be held in Boston Church. The members after some discussion, agreed to hold a rummage sale in the S.S. rooms in November. Mrs. John Murray spoke briefly on an article published in the recent issue of the Glad Tidings. A group of women photographed in the article from India were familiar to her, after living there with her husband for some years.

Fills in

The Thanksgiving Thankoffering part of the program was taken from the Glad Tidings with Mrs. P. W. Cooke reading the portion of scripture, and Mrs. J. Murray giving the prayer.

In the absence of Mrs. Phylis Peddie through sickness, presented by Miss Eva Chisholm. This was a thought-provoking message on the preparation of the Lord's table, utensils to be used, foods to be eaten, even vitamins to take. The members read from the Bible where all this can be found to be soul satisfying.
