

Match . . .

Acton's Carol Somerville was chosen to contest the Ontario title next September following a carefully planned program. Carol and other contestants Eileen Marshall of the Omagh area and Janet Henderson, who lives along Highway 7 between Georgetown and Acton, were required to make two rounds of afternoon plowing, speak three minutes on the Farm Story as told by the International Plowing Match, and to appear poised and confident at the banquet.

Judges
The winner was selected by judges Miss Mary Dolson, Brampton, Mrs. Clifford Yule, Hagersville and Mrs. Ray Montague, also of Hagersville. Their furrows were judged by field experts Timbers and Brunton. Spencer Wilson coached the girls in the field and his wife organized the contest.

Head table talk centred around the 1974 International Plowing Match to be held next Sept. 24 to 28 with headquarters at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Craig Reid. Mr. Reid and his wife were head table guests at the banquet, and a sign showing the location was mounted on the stage.

DANGER
Drivers are reminded by the Ontario Safety League of one of the easily-overlooked winter dangers. Intersections are likely to be more dangerous than other road sections, because the heavy traffic tends to polish ice and snow to a hard glaze. Approach intersections more slowly in winter.

Plowmen winners at Wentworth

Several Halton plowmen were in the money Oct. 16 when North Wentworth Plowmen's Association staged its annual plowing match at Beaverville.

Murray Breckon of Burlington won the tractor class for plowmen under 21 years of age, and came fourth in the tractor utility class. Jack Taylor of Burlington placed first in the class for tractors with hydraulic two furrow mounted plows and was fifth in the utility class.

Stan May of Hornby beat his son Dwight in the class for horse-drawn plows—Stan was third and Dwight fifth in that class.

George Swann of Milton attended with the Sherwood Farms sound car. A banquet was held Thursday night when awards were presented.
