Taking council to the people

Council meeting held in Nassagaweya hall

Milton Council took to the road last week and staged a regular council meeting in Brookville Hall for the benefit of ward three ratepayers. The meeting was one of a series of rotating meetings instigated by Mayor Anne MacArthur, who said she feels it is necessary to take the council to the people in the rural areas of the new town. Other meetings are planned for Burlington and Oakville. Staffers too More than 20 staffers attended the meeting. The regular agenda was shortened to complete the business session by 10 p.m. and allow the ratepayers to ask questions of special concern to ward three. Coffee and sandwiches were served immediately after the meeting and approximately 25 members of the public chatted with members of council and staff. Questions during the question period concerned a wide variety of subjects from education tax to recycling and the future of the Nassagaweya dump. Planned to speak Bill Johnson (Wicked Willie) told council it was his intention to put a green garbage bag over his head and streak through the meeting room, but he decided to save that for when he meets with a regional committee to discuss a recycling program for Halton. Johnson has been very active in encouraging recycling and discouraging use of landfill sites.

Ball Club Representatives of the Moffat Ball Club asked when the new park at Brookville would be ready. Council passed a recommendation instructing recreation director Bob Small to commence that project at once and head for completion within six weeks. Another lady asked about the status of the Nassagaweya dump and where she would have to take garbage if the dump is closed. The mayor explained the region was seeking an extension to the life of that dump but if it wasn't granted, the garbage would have to be taken to Georgetown or Oakville.

Who pays whom? "Do they pay us to do that?" the woman asked. "No, you pay them," the mayor replied. The mayor promised the council would take a serious look at recycling as soon as there was time to do it. "Who will clean up the garbage strewn along roadways?" another woman asked. But no one had an answer.

Landscaping tender called

Tenders are now being called for spring landscaping at the Ministry of Correctional Services' Reception and Assessment Centre, Oakville. The landscaping is expected to be complete within two months of a contract being awarded. Halton East MPP Jim Snow announced and exercise yard, and revision of existing grade elevations and seeding of lawn areas.

Course for asthmatics

A physical conditioning course for asthmatic children is being sponsored by Halton Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, starting April 26 in Oakville. Halton TB and RD officials said the six week course will be held each Friday evening until May 31 and will involve swimming, exercise and education. Doctors in Halton have been advised of details and interested parents are asked to contact their doctors.

The cost is taken care of by the Christmas Seal campaign.
