

Add one field rep

Halton Community Services Committee approved the hiring of an additional field representative to work with the Social and Family Services Department during a meeting Monday.

Permission was also granted to hire a permanent part-time secretary for the North Halton office in Georgetown. During the same meeting committee members stressed the need for a part time janitor or maintenance man to work at the regional day care centre in Oakville.

Consideration was also given to installing air conditioning in the day care centre. More information was required on that matter. Councillors expressed concern about the poor state that facility was in, after a tour of day care centres last week.

Administrator Rennie Vivian was also asked to examine other possibilities before renting additional office space at Milton Plaza. Committee members wanted to consider moving into the Health Unit building or the family court building that may soon be vacant.

Juniors keep going

At the April meeting of the Palermo Jr. Farmers it was decided, after a lengthy discussion, to keep the club alive, at least until November. Due to lack of interest, an earlier county board meeting tried to reach a decision, but since there weren't many people there, either, it was left until the Palermo meeting.

New members are welcome and a cook-out is being planned for this Thursday at Rattlesnake Point. Persons interested in further information should call Kathy Newell or Kim Mauro.
