"Voice is a beautiful thing. It can be tuned a little higher or a little lower — a bit louder or a bit softer." This remark was made by adjudicator, Miss Nan Allin, in regard to last Wednesday's music festival, held at M. Z. Bennett School in Acton.

She seemed to be pleasantly surprised at the quality of sound put out by students of the ten competing public schools. No matter how many times a song was repeated, the response to each individual choir was enthusiastic.

The parent representation at the festival was good, with the spectator section filled to overflowing.

recovered from past festivals and from some schools that are now shut down. These trophies are now on display at the Halton County Museum. This year the music festival executives felt the great loss of two people who always worked very hard to make the festival a success — Elmer Smith, former secretary-treasurer of the committee and Ken Harrison, music co-ordinator of Halton. Their contributions have never been fully realized until this year, their festival associates said.
