

Cemeteries tell so many stories . . . stories of difficult pioneer times when disease claimed so many young lives . . . stories of difficulty and homes across the sea . . . stories of love . . . Today the early stones provide merely a reflection of those times, an opportunity to look back. Today the stones gathered in groups or cairns, indicate the desire of those who followed, to pay tribute in remembrance of the heritage we now enjoy. Cemeteries tell so many stories . . .

Staff photos by Steven Dills.

