The Rock Scene

By Nelson Gareau

THE BUBBLE-GUM SOUND
Does this form of music have a place in the rock scene? Originally, it was directly aimed at the pre-teen age group. Bubble-gum music, defined, is rock music in its simplest terms. The groups or artists who play this style shy away from any serious idioms of thought. They pin their ideas on sweet innocent love and on childhood fantasies.

Bubble-gum came into its own when Buddah Records was established in 1967. Such groups as: The 1910 Fruitgum Company (Hits "Simon Says, 1, 2, 3 Red Light and Indian Giver"); Ohio Express (Hits, "Yummy, Yummy, Chewy, Chewy and Mercy"); and the Cowbells (Hits, "Rain, the Park, and other Things, Indian Lake and Hair"), introduced the sound to the young record buyer.

Fads come and go... bubble-gum was called just that by most of the critics. Ten years later, this music is still filling a void in rock and making all kinds of money. Bobby Sherman (Hits "Little Women, La La La and Easy Come, Easy Go"); Tommy Roe (Hits "Dizzy, Sweet Pea, Jam Up, Jelly Tight"); the Archies (Hits "Sugar, Sugar, Jingle, Jangle") and the Monkees (Hits "I'm a Believer, Daydream Believer, Pleasant Valley Sunday"), followed bubble-gum into the 1970s.

The 70s brought teen idols as bubble-gum heroes. The Partridge Family had their own show and David Cassidy was a superstar. (Hits "I Think I Love You, Woke Up in Love, Am I Losing You"). When the fad passed the Osmonds became the king-pins, featuring Donny Osmond ("Sweet and Innocent, One Bad Apple, Yo Yo, Go Away Little Girl").

Today, the Bay City Rollers are riding high as the leading bubble-gum band, with sold-out concerts, million selling records and causing the type of hysteria that the Beatles created over a decade ago. ("Saturday Night, Money Honey, Love Letter, Dedication").

Is there anything wrong with the pre-teens having their own music, with their own stars?
Your comments are invited.

Focusing on: TOMMY JAMES AND THE SHONDELLS
Tommy James (singer, guitarist and song-writer), led his group the Shondells to hit after hit during the 1960s. This is the only bubble-gum band I listen to.

Their lyrics were easy to understand and the music they played was tangible. The group had one song that crossed the line of bubble-gum to an almost progressive sound in "Crimson in Clover". The record has exceeded sales of over 6,000,000.

Their hits are "Hanky Panky, It's Only Love, I Think We're Alone Now, Money Money, Crimson in Clover, Mirage, Sweet Cherry Wine, Out of the Blue, Crystal Blue Persuasion, Ball of Fire, She Can't take it no More, Sugar on Sunday, Come to Me, Travelin' and Adrienne".

In 1970, the group split up when James went into seclusion for months. He was recovering from drug addiction. He succeeded in overcoming the "monkey on the back" and had a successful solo career. Hits were "Draggin' the Line, I'm Coming Home, Love Song."

Record Care—Remember that the stylus tip (needle) does not last forever. Depending on the amount of use, it should be changed when needed.

Writer's note: If there is a rock band struggling to gain recognition out there, please feel free to drop me a line. I would be willing to listen to your music.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED, since this 1903 receipt was issued by The Champion for the sum of $3 covering 2,000 envelopes. Boston Presbyterian Church historians uncovered the receipt while searching through church records, looking for early church artifacts for a proposed display case in the church. Anyone with any early Boston history is urged to contact the minister, Rev. W. R. Lewis or Mrs. Ernest Wilson.

Unique firearms

The Montreal Military and Maritime Museum has two exhibits of special interest. One is a unique collection of firearms. The guns and related artifacts are from around the world. Others are Canadian made, and were used by the military and for hunting.

The other exhibit is a large collection of swords on loan from the John Woodman Higgins Armoury Museum in Worcester, Mass.

This well-known collection illustrates a comprehensive history of edged weapons dating since the time of the Roman Empire.

The museum, situated in the Old Fort on St. Helen's island was built between 1820 and 1824. It is now open all year from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
