

Spring Fashion Frolic at Milton Mall

THE LATIN LOOK highlighting a black and white handwoven poncho from Argentina, black slacks and a Spanish-style wide-brimmed leather hat is modelled by Rita Valentini. In her hand, what else? A long-stemmed red rose!

Cold winds and snow flurries failed to hamper the sunny spirits of the hundreds who flocked to Milton Mall last week to view a show called "Spring Fashion Frolic."

About 200 people attended the fashion show Wednesday night and another 400 crammed the interior of the mall Thursday between 7 and 8 p.m. to watch local men, women and children model the latest in hardos, accessories and clothing for spring.

Outfits modelled ranged from carefree casuals and swimwear to romantic evening attire and an assortment of indoor and outdoor children's wear.

The models were mainly people from the Milton area, and included an 18-month-old baby, several pre-schoolers, teenagers and many in their 30s and 40s.

The fashion show was sponsored by the mall Merchant's Association in co-operation with Goldenglow Publications of Milton.

Publisher Joyce Beaton gave the commentary at the fashion show — and even modeled a blue and white pin-stripe pant suit from one of the stores.

Laurie Walker, leader of the Milton District High band, accompanied Ms. Beaton and the models on the organ throughout.

SPRING WEDDING ATTIRE was shown last and brought 'ooooos' and 'aaaaahhhhs' from the audience. At far left, four-year-old flower girl Becky Loan wears a floor length sheer blue floral print gown as the mother-of-the-bride (Irene Murphy) is stunning in a spring green, two-piece polyester gown in lily of the valley print. Modelling the latest in matrimonial attire are groom Peter Barrowcliffe and bride Cindy Beiderman.

READY FOR BED: 18-month-old Christopher Bennett stole the show when he modelled a set of print pajamas carrying his toy monkey across the platform with him. Holding Christopher's hand in a flowing white nightgown is Marva Thomas.

SWINGING CASUALS that include light green polyester slacks with complementing T-shirt and a beige windbreaker, perfect for a cool morning on the golf course, are modeled by Jim Kenzie of "Jack Fraser."
