

BOYS CAN COOK TOO, claim Dave Krantz and Scott Watkins, who demonstrated their culinary prowess during open house Wednesday. Dave did the cupcakes and Scott supplied the icing.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND was featured at the Wednesday evening open house program at the high school. Laurie Walker conducted the group through several numbers and the audience response was enthusiastic. Trumpet and trombone sections are pictured here.

SOUVENIRS OF GREECE were displayed at the high school open house, by students who visited that country on the March break holiday. Pretending to be Greek shopkeepers dispensing their wares are Mark Roelofson, Cheryl Fitzpatrick and Randy Bell.

Displays highlight hi school open house

Parents of Milton District High School students got an excellent overall view of students' work and activities Wednesday, when the school doors opened for the annual spring open house.

Classroom displays were held first, followed by an auditorium program and a large crowd attended.

Students who had toured Greece during the March break brought home souvenirs and clothes and had a "breakfast in Greece" display in one room and French students ran a "Cafe Francais". Slides showed students' work in art, grade 10 students were busy typing visitors' name tags, a typing display showed the contrast between "then" and "now", and retail merchandising students showed how to display merchandise.

Two constables from Milton OPP, John Hicks and Eric Miller ran a "From the Cop Shop" room featuring a film on teenage drinking and vandalism and answered questions from visitors. Business education students put on a skit about how to apply for a job.

Public speaking was demonstrated in English classes, home economics students displayed their culinary talents and students in the drafting, metal fabrication, auto mechanics, electronics and machine shop classes worked through the evening to demonstrate their course work and projects. The auditorium program featured three bands, the high school concert band directed by Laurie Walker, the intermediate band (which includes some Martin St. students) conducted by Judy Hunter, and the popular jazz-rock group, Scarlet Feaver. Portions of the drama club's April 20-22 play "The Wizard of Oz" were presented on the auditorium floor. Gymnasts Oonagh Johnston, Michelle Callan, Mary Jean Roberts and Marion Cunningham performed on the bar and Miss Kriksciunas grade 10 folk dancers performed two numbers. Gary Love emceed the program and the championship midget boys' basketball team was introduced and recognized for winning the Halton championship.

Milton Y had a display based on its current spring programs at Milton Mall Wednesday and Thursday. Program co-ordinator Carol Wilson will be back again this Thursday and Friday.

CLARINET PLAYERS in the school's senior band give it their all during the Wednesday mini-concert. Three bands, gymnasts, folk dancers and the school players entertained a crowd.

GYMNASTIC DISPLAY during the open house program featured Oonagh Johnston (above) and Michelle Callan, below. Others performing on the bar were Mary Jean Roberts and Marion Cunningham.
