

C.O. Anderson . . .

Geoffrey Drew-Brook were given graduation awards by their retiring Commanding Officer Capt. Anderson. F. Sgt. Brad Michell was awarded the N.L. Harding

Trophy for the best dressed cadet on parade. AC Gord Nisbet received the Jim Rendless Trophy for initiative and enthusiasm. LAC Jeff Griffiths was awarded the outstanding first year cadet honor but was not able to personally receive it. Jeff and his sister Diane, also an Air Cadet, contacted the measles the week before inspection and could not be there. Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths accepted the honor in his absence. Sgt. Don Nisbet was honored by Squadron 820 as the Air Cadet of the year. AC Tim Bailey received a clock radio for selling the most OPC lottery tickets. Don Simons, Chairman of the sponsoring body from June 1972 to December 1976 was given an award for his dedication to the Air Cadet Program in Milton.

The Brampton Air Cadet drum corps led the Milton Cadets into Milton Arena to open the inspection. Reviewing officer Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. MacDougall from the Canadian Armed Forces Base in Toronto went through the lines, inspecting each cadet.

The familiar blue uniforms of the Air Cadets will be replaced by Armed Forces green next fall. The squadron's precision drill team performed for the audience and the reviewing officer, later receiving praise from him. The first aid team, which placed 14th out of 21 squadrons in a competition earlier in the year, did an outstanding job tending a mock victim of a wood chopping accident. Considering the Air Cadets are 13 to 19-year-olds attending Squadron meetings during the evenings and going to school during the daytime, the put on a professional marching exhibition. Next fall will be a new experience for the returning Air Cadets as they will face a new Commanding Officer in Capt. Gibson and they will be wearing the unfamiliar colors of the Armed Forces.
