

Raise drinking age — trustees

Halton Board of Education letter to Attorney General Roy McMurtry, Liberal Leader Dr. Stuart Smith, NDP leader Stephen Lewis and five MPPs urging the drinking age be raised.

Trustee Ivan Armstrong noted Oxford didn't suggest a new drinking age but he favors 19. He said many felt 21 was too stringent an age and many probably feel the same way today.

Armstrong said 19 would probably solve many of the problems schools are having with alcohol consumption by students.

The Ontario Public School Trustees' Association has passed two resolutions which were sent to Education Minister Tom Wells urging the drinking age be raised, Trustee Judy Alexander told the board.

Trustee Bert Hinton said the more motions that are passed the better. He also urged calls for a higher drinking age should go to more provincial politicians than just Wells.

Halton agreed with Oxford's letter which said, "The present legislation has resulted in an unacceptable situation in terms of its effect on health, safety and morality."

'Spiritual growth' is speaker's topic

Knox Church Evening Department W.M.S. met at the home of Gertrude Denboer with 16 members present.

Devotion was by Bess Robinson who used the Thanksgiving Service from the Glad Tidings. The main theme was how thankful we must be for living in such a rich and resourceful country and how we as Christians should be willing to share this with other nationalities who choose to adopt this country as their own.

Guest speaker was Helen Seliszzi who spoke on "Spiritual Growth." She said that the word perfect in the Scriptures means mature and how Christian maturity is hard to measure; and as we work at the Christian way of life our maturity develops.

In continuing she compared our failures and problems to new mountains to climb and said life is a daily climb upwards. We have to feed the internal part of our being and every day communicate with God about all things big or small. Through this daily contact our lives become rich and rewarding whether at business or socializing, she added.

In conclusion she said that we must reach out to others in their sorrow. Our lives will change from one degree to another, as we grow older and mature spiritually as He lives through us, she said. The President Mary Jackson thanked the speaker for such an interesting and thought provoking talk.

HALTON PLOWMEN'S ASSOCIATION provided four $500 scholarships for young ladies studying agriculture or related courses in university. Winners this year are Sharon Rasmussen of Georgetown, Holly Hurren of Campbellville, Martha Davidson of North Burlington and Carolyn Bird of Ashgrove.

During business discussion a nominating committee was chosen to look into the election of new officers for the next term.

After the forming of a circle and repeating of the Mizpah benediction, refreshments were served by Joan Phillips and Margaret Hamilton.

British, European dishes studied

The third meeting of the Campbellville 4-H "Global Gourmets" was held at Mrs. Postma's home on Oct. 5. This meeting was centred on the British tradition. The United Empire Loyalists were the main discussion of the meeting. Did you know that they were the ones who were the first real settlers in this area?

For excitement at the meeting, Madeline Austen made a Scottish dish "Finnan Haddock". This dish was given its name accidentally. In Findon, a fishing village in Scotland, a building caught fire that contained haddock and some fish. When the fire was put out some haddock, which had escaped flame, was found to have taken on a rich, golden color. When it was cooked it had a pleasant smoky flavor. Before long, haddock was smoked on purpose and sold at markets as Finnon Haddock, later to be worldwide known as Finnan Haddock. Club members found that this dish was not a favorite.

Mrs. Postma prepared an English Trifle. This tasty dessert was enjoyed by everyone, including those who did forget to watch their diet.

Meeting Four, held at the same place, was on Oct. 12. At this meeting German, Dutch and Belgian cooking occupied the members.

Since the club members are to put on a skit for Achievement Day, plans were made to go to Black Creek Pioneer Village on Oct. 22.

A favorite in most European countries, pea soup was previously prepared by Mrs. Postma. The recipe was a modern version adapted from an old recipe. Most members enjoyed this tasty soup.

German tea squares, a recipe which was used in a 4-H project on international foods in one of the southwestern states, was made by Betsy Howard. The other club members assisted in the preparation of this desert. Michele Anderson made the glaze to put on top after baking.

Kelly Anderson and Madeline Austen made a Dutch Chocolate drink. Club members said that the drink was too bitter, but some liked it too.

For a home assignment the club members were to bake a main course, Sausage and Tomato Bake, or another family meal from this section of the book. The meeting was ended by members having the honor of washing dishes.

Martin St. School held a meet-the-teachers night Thursday and W. I. Dick School had a similar event Wednesday.

Sept. stats District leads solving crimes

District One police officers continue to clear up crime at a rate higher than the one set throughout all Halton Region.

According to the September statistics the 40.5 per cent clearance rate for the region, including the work done here, trails the pace set by officers in Georgetown, Acton and Milton, by about 15 per cent.

About a quarter of the reported crime in Halton Region takes place in District 1, according to last month's numbers. Of the 417 reported crimes listed, 188 remain unsolved, according to District One superintendent Floyd Schwantz.

The figure of unsolved cases for September, from manslaughter to by-law infractions, should draw public attention, according to Superintendent Schwantz. "The public has to be more alert to the problem to assist police in stopping those persons who are intent on breaking the law", he said Friday.

He added that the statistics do not demonstrate the whole picture of police service to the community because no traffic offences are shown. This area's rural setting, plus the hunting season, accounts for the three weapons occurrences this month, according to the superintendent. There were three weapons occurrences here, and two of them are solved. The rest of the region added three other such occurrences to the September stats.

The normal difference in rates between clearances of thefts under and over $200 continued last month, according to Schwantz. There were 83 thefts under that value here, and police cleaned up 18 per cent of them. Throughout all Halton there were 467 such occurrences, with a 9.8 per cent clearance rate.

There were ten thefts over $200 in District One, and 44 per cent were solved. Overall there was a 19.6 per cent clearance rate on the 61 thefts in Halton.

To date there have been 3,303 crimes reported in District One. In the rest of Halton there 10,577 crimes so far.
