

LEONA FIDLER chooses a beige and brown pantsuit with stripes for spring. Suit and all clothes modeled at the show are from Caravan Clothes in Toronto.

MEMBERS of Milton Senior Citizens Club and residents of Halton Centennial Manor modeled fashions especially selected to appeal to seniors at the manor last week. Margaret Muddle, in a blue and white striped dress, Dorothy Edwards, in a navy pantsuit with white piping, and Mildred Graham, in a pink and white leaf print dress, discuss the show.

CARAVAN CLOTHES, a travelling clothing boutique dealing exclusively in fashions for seniors visited Milton last week. Clara Price tried on a white cowl-necked dress splashed in grey and red while Laura Munro was intrigued by a two-piece navy dress printed in question marks. Lena Whaley opted for a camel and white striped coatdress.

NAVY pants matched to a blue plaid shirt are modeled by Roy Currie. Short-sleeved shirts are popular for summer.

PINK FLOWERS on a black background make a cheerful spring frock, worn here by Fannie Evans.
