Game & Fish News

by arn coulson

Sometimes when game seems to be scarce and fish refuse to bite, we wonder if our wildlife management programs are paying off.

The old Department of Lands and Forests, now the Department of Natural Resources, worked for years with a limited budget, and unlike other departments of government, was forced to stay within that budget.

Unfortunately, funds that were meant for restocking were channelled into another direction and never were returned to its proper place.

Great advances have been made, and are continuing to be made, in the conservation and management of fish and wildlife.

Seasons and limits on popular game and fish species to allow the maximum harvest by sportsmen and still keep population at the highest level are recommended by the wildlife experts.

About one thousand lakes and streams are surveyed each year in detail to assess their water in relation to fish production.

The Department keeps in close touch with the angler and hunter, their best source of information, to determine fish and wildlife kill each year, and know when one area is ready for a hunt to regulate the growth and health of our deer, bear, moose, and small game.

Unfortunately, a certain segment of our society raises a hue and cry every time one of our wild animals is harvested by hunters, who incidentally, pay a much higher price for that opportunity than the person who is criticizing is willing to pay for conservation.

We suggest people who criticize visit an overpopulated area where fawns and adult deer are dying of hookworm.

While we are on the subject of the work of our Department of Natural Resources, and without too much flag-waving, may we also suggest that Ontario is the largest producer of fine quality wild furs in North America.

Ontario has supported an important commercial fishing industry for 150 years. This fishery is the largest producer of freshwater fish in North America and one of the largest in the world.

We may add here that our Federation is not in agreement on the licensing policy to our commercial fishermen who are over-exploiting our fresh water lakes.

The Junior Ranger program each summer employs over two thousand young men and women across Ontario, where they are employed in preparation of boat launching sites, canal routes, trails and government campsites.

The Ministry of Natural Resources' nurseries have produced more than one billion forest trees for use on both private and crown lands.

That nearly 90 per cent of the land area in Ontario is publicly owned.

Ontario has over 12 million visitors to its parks and recreation centres each year and to sum it up, our ministry has three basic functions: Land Management; Outdoor Recreation; and Resources Management.

By Mike Kendrick Once again avid sports fans, I bring you news of Milton Flag Football league happenings. This week brought about many surprises, some expected and a few that weren't.

To begin with, Canadian Tire trounced Syers by a score of 47-29 in a game played entirely in the first half.

For Syers, majors went to Rob McDowell, Doug Anders, Brian Camani and Terry Kotsopoulos. Terry and Brian also picked up two points each on converts.

For Canadian Tire, Steve Brancier and Dave Short were the big scorers with 12 points each. John Herbert and Lee Fairbanks added additional majors.

Don Hunt converted for five extra points and added a touchdown himself.

The surprises started when Sargent Farms, undefeated in four games, took to the field to play Gallinger Motors with only one win to their credit.

Sargents were simply outplayed in every facet of the game. The major damage was done by Larry McGregor with 18 points and by Gary Watson with two interceptions and a complete overall superb defensive game.

Quarterback Jon Suzuki also found Jim Byrdie-Davis for two touchdowns and Ron Brown and Pete Murray for six points each.

Sargent Farms managed to get on the score board in the second half. Terry Houghton scored two majors and Randy Johnston had one.

Mike Kendrick scored on a pitch out from Keith Sommerville after an interception. The game resulted in a big win for Gallinger's, but at the same time a big loss. Both Jon Suzuki and Jim Webb were injured in the game.

The league at this time extends to these two great competitors a speedy recovery. On Wednesday, Syers again trying to pick up their first two points found themselves on the wrong end of a 38-27 score.

Brian Camani was the big scorer with 18 points, Doug Anders had eight and Rick Kierstead added a single. Sandi Aqualanti played a strong game hitting Mike Barton and Paul Pascoe twice, Mark Brancier and Rob Chesky each had majors.

Thursday's game proved quite interesting as Canadian Tire edged the Charles Hotel 21-14. Pat Moran scored the Charles' only two majors and Glen Biederman added a two point conversion.

Gary Fleming managed to make the league standing a little more interesting by ousting the Charles with help from John Herbert, Steve Brancier and Lee Fairbanks. Don Hunt converted all three majors.

So far this year, the W.A.C.C. 9000 and myself have an identical 12-3 record. I guess that only goes to prove you only get out of a machine, what you put in it. Anyhow, this week's picks are a little more difficult.

The first game has Canadian Tire vs. Syers. WACC picks Canadian Tire 38-18. No argument there.

The next two picks are a little more difficult. Both Sargents and Charles have come off defeats last week so they will be primed for a win. WACC has Sargents 24-14 over the Charles.

I'll decline comment for obvious reasons. The W.A.C.C. picks Fobert to beat Gallinger 30-20. This is a difficult pick because it is hard to say how Gallinger will do without Suzuki and Webb. It will be a close game but I'll give Gallinger eight points.

This week on "up close and personal" we feature Larry McGregor. Larry was instrumental in Gallinger's victory over Sargents combining with Suzuki for 18 points.

I look for McGregor to be a key figure in this week's game against Fobert. He is fast becoming a legend in his own mind.

100 refs for Hood's school

Milton will be invaded by hockey referees during the last week of August as Bruce Hood brings his International School of Refereeing back to town for another training session.

The school, operated by the senior NHL whistle toter Hood, of Highside Dr., is already filled up with over 100 young hopefuls from Canada and northern USA signed up to participate.

Teaching sessions will be held at the school and on-ice instruction will be given at Milton Memorial Arena, Thompson Rd. Hood said the staff will be the arena fund and this year Hood says he hopes to put the proceeds of the event into a swimming pool fund.
