A study in the art of pitching baseball!

NINE YEAR OLD SCOTT PARSONS is in his third year of Milton Minor Baseball Association play. But it is his first year of chucking the ball from the mound. Parsons, from Campbellville, shows Champion readers and minor ball fans his style and expressions used on the mound to effectively communicate the way the ball game is going for his team. The thought of what to throw, then the signal from his catcher. The wind up follows and he is committed to make the throw count. Concentration is the key as he watches his delivery. The ball is high outside and so a brief display of despair is experienced until the next pitch. (Champion photos by Peter McCusker)
