STUDY OF A STREAM turned up some interesting results, for Summer Resource students. They checked the stream at Kelso and the pond at Mountsberg for PH, carbon dioxide, oxygen and chloride levels.

A BOOT FULL OF WATER isn't so bad, claimed Danny Stephen, 11, of Burlington. He got the soaker chasing crayfish in the stream at Kelso, during Summer Resource Program stream study sessions.

Hydro tests

Reduced voltage here on July 18

Ontario Hydro will reduce system voltage by five per cent on July 18, as part of a regular series of twice a year tests.

The test will cover two one-hour periods, from 2.30 p.m. to 3.30 p.m., and from 7.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. It is not expected to affect residential, commercial or industrial customers.

"It's unlikely any customers will even be aware that the test is underway," says Roger Whitehead, system operation manager.

It is estimated that a five per cent reduction will reduce system demand by two and a half per cent—about 390 megawatts, or enough to supply the needs of a city the size of London.

The tests are used to determine the advantages of voltage reduction, locate any operating or customer problems, and to ensure that

Hydro operations staff are familiar with procedures.

The last voltage reduction test took place on Jan. 11 this year.

If bad weather or system problems occur on July 18, the testing will be delayed two days, to July 20.
