

WAITING THE STARTER'S gun to begin the soapbox derby and open the Upper Burlington Optimists' Hillbilly Festival are Dwayne Squires and Pierre-Paul Lambert. The day-long festival took place in Kilbride streets and park. Proceeds go toward the Optimists' youth work in the community.

SINGING country favorites, Robin Yancey performs in the Gordie Tapp show, which closed the Hillbilly Festival.

HELMETS are an essential part of the gear for soapbox racers. Martin Wright of Kilbride, a member of the Junior Octagon, fastens the strap for Dale Squires.

HALF A SMILE is what Tommy Telfer, 8, of Kilbride calls his watermelon slice as he takes a big juicy chomp.

MACAWS are colorful but they're apt to nibble at fingers. Bev McMullen of African Lion Safari shows Harley to visitor at Hillbilly Festival.

WARMING UP on the clarinets prior to the show by the Burlington Teen Tour Band are Tracy Smiley and Chris North. Band took part in festivities in Kilbride Park Saturday.
