

PETER BRAAKSMA in his street stock car, ready for racing at Flamboro this spring.

Entering racing world challenging experience

It's a whole new ball game for Peter Braaksma as he builds his street stock car from scratch to rip up the track at Flamborough Speedway this spring.

He's building a 1966 Chevrolet with a stock 327 Chevrolet power plant and has been laboring since July of last year.

He has never raced before and everything is an entirely new experience. But he's confident and optimistic. There are 85 entries in the street stock division this year for Flamborough.

Street stock cars are relatively inexpensive racing machines, averaging around $1,000.

Peter nabbed the body from a local wrecking yard and built the stock engine himself. He is a mechanic at Canadian Tire.

"It's just a cheap hobby," he said "not like spending $7,000 on an engine in a higher class."

The car has cost him $400 so far and has one seat, no windows or exhaust. He doesn't even have headers. It has to be stock, that is what would come from the factory.

His four chief sponsors are Bonin's Esso, Core Fix Radiator, Milton

Automotive and Dan's Auto Body. Other help and money has come from Milton Transmission, Track and Traffic, Canadian Tire and J & J Janitorial Services

The blue Chevelle, sporting number 49, sounds pretty gutsy. It rests between jobs at the CTC parking lot until the summer when it will see its first action.

SPRING FIGURE SKATING school opened Monday at Milton Memorial Arena and will run 'till May 19. The summer skating school will open July 2 and operate until August 24. The local school operated by Sandra Wilson is the only figure skating operation between Kitchener and Toronto in the summer. In past years skaters have come from as far away as Nova Scotia to attend. Pictured is Lisa Kett who is taking her dance test, being guided by Karen Vickery.

Minor atoms high after tourney win

Milton minor atom Docs and Dents met Kitchener Steers in their first round at the Streetsville Tyke Tournament on the weekend and won 2-0 in the two-game total goal series.

In the first game Saturday Docs and Dents outshot Kitchener 23-2 but the game ended in a scoreless tie as the Milton shooters did everything but score as Todd McDougall played an outstanding game in net for Kitchener.

On Sunday night the locals came out fast and Doug Drennan fired home a pass from Robbie Wilson early in the first period. Two minutes later Geoff Pollen finished off a play from Justin Varga to give Milton the Insurance goal.

Milton now faces Streetsville on Friday at 1.30 p.m. with the winner advancing in the championship division. The Streetsville team eliminated Milton from OMHA competition in two overtime games but lost out in the finals against Grimsby. The Milton boys are determined to pull off a win in this game.
