Brownies list 'rights' for International Year

By Peter Mills
International Year of the Child has provided at least one local Brownie pack with an interesting project.

Third Pineview pack, with Ethel Arnold as Brown Owl, is trying for the IYC Challenge Emblem.

To earn the emblem, the girls cleaned up in the area around Boston Presbyterian Church, where they meet, and the nearby creek.

As well, they saved up $24.12 by putting a penny aside each time they took a drink of water, took a bath, washed their hands, etc. The money will be used towards clean water in underdeveloped countries.

The kids also made up posters outlining 10 of the basic rights they enjoy as Canadians and also say which of the ten they would give up if they had to give one up.

In her poster, Jessica Crozier listed:

1. The right to go to the hospital for checkup every six months.
2. The right to talk to my mom or dad if something went wrong at school.
3. The right to go to church and receive communion.

4. The right to go to Brownies and make new friends there.
5. The right to listen to the radio.
6. The right to talk to my friends on the phone.
7. The right to spend my money on gum and candy.
8. The right to play with my friends after school.
9. The right to go to school.

10. The right to play the piano.

I would give up gum and candy.

In her poster, Kathleen Lawson wrote:

1. The right to good nutrition is important to stay healthy.
2. The right to a good family life is important for love and protections.
3. The right to an education is important to learn to survive and hold a job as an adult.
4. The right to privacy is important to help you be an individual.
5. The right to protective shelter is important in order to protect you from the elements.

6. The Right to Play is important to have fun and make friends.
7. The Right to good health is important in order to stay healthy.
8. The right to be your self is important because it's not very nice to pretend.
9. The Right to your own religion is important because every one has their own beliefs.
10. The Right to choose your own friends is important because no one else is able to see who you like. It comes naturally.

I would give up the right to privacy because the other rights are more important.

Halton WI annual

The 78th Halton District Women's Institute annual meeting was held in Knox Presbyterian Church in Acton Thursday, May 17. Theme this year was "International Year of the Child". Mrs. J. McNabb, District President, presided.

A welcome was extended by Mrs. C. Sinclair, president of the host branch Bannockburn, to 120 women.

Mrs. L. A. Jefferson, board member, ratified 14 District Directors who received standing committee and conveners' annual reports.

In her president's address Mrs. J. McNabb stressed the importance of encouraging parents to have all children immunized. She thanked all the branches for their co-operation and encouragement and concluded with Edna Jack's poem, "A child needs a Grandma."

Home Economist Nancy Schmidt spoke on the importance of 4-H clubs, achievement days, the gratifying response to a recent quilting course, changes in manuals, and future projects.

A lively sing song was conducted by Mrs. E. McEnery and Mrs. Gibbons, with Mrs. Cole accompanist for the day.

Panel moderator Mrs. J. Wheelihan presided for standing committee and conveners reports presented by Mrs. P. Henderson, Mrs. O. Vansickle, Mrs. E. Norton, Mrs. J. McEnery, Mrs. H. Robertson, Mrs. M. Hunter, Mrs. W. Lasby, Mrs. R. Cowan, and the bursary report by Mrs. G. Campbell.

Mrs. L. A. Jefferson opened her greetings with a poem on International Year of the Child. She stressed donations be increased for the Erland Lee Home and WI week there June 4 to 8. Short course attendance has increased to 49 per cent, she noted.

Tribute was paid to Mrs. C. Diamond, FWIO president. Members were reminded of the area convention Oct. 29 and 30 at Bingham Park with Halton WI responsible for an Alberta display and a square dance. Mrs. R. Alexander, Mrs. T. N. Anderson and Mrs. W. Lasby are conveners. Lunch was served by Knox Church LA with special guests from Wellington — Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Duffield, Mrs. K. Law and Mrs. J. Poyle in attendance.

Second vice-president Mrs. E. Norton presided at the afternoon session, opening with the Hymn of All Nations. Reports of the officers' conference were given by Curator Mrs. H. Robertson, assisted by Mrs. L. Andrews and Mrs. J. Bird.

The In Memoriam was conducted by Miss Eva Chisholm. Roll call included pennies for friendship, lists of branch officers, amusing skits, poems and thoughts on "Today's Child is Tomorrow's Adult."

Mrs. Jefferson installed the 1979-80 district officers and standing committee conveners.

A musical duet "Whispering Hope" by Bannockburn was enjoyed. Miss Lydia Snow announced the competition winners, as follows: Article of original design quilt block, 1 Acton, 2 Campbellville, 3 Bannockburn; Loaf of whole wheat bread, 1 Ashgrove, 2 Dublin, 3 Ballinfad.

Mrs. L. Andrews reported on the WI Hall at the Ontario Agricultural Museum at Milton which is staffed by students co-ordinated by Miss Mary Robertson. Meetings there are welcomed, as well as craft and quilting demonstrations.

It was decided to increase the amounts of Ethel Chapman scholarships this year.

Courtesies were extended by Miss Jean McLean to all who had contributed to an interesting and enjoyable day.

Hearing aids

People whose ears don't work, listen with their eyes. They look at your mouth, your hands, your face, to transfer sounds they don't understand into sights they do. It takes a little time, just like it does when you have to translate a foreign word into English before you respond. Please take that time to help.

When you're speaking with someone who reads lips:

- Make sure you have their attention before you speak.
- Keep the light on your face.
- Speak clearly, at a normal speed.
- Don't exaggerate your lip movements.
- Don't mumble or shout.

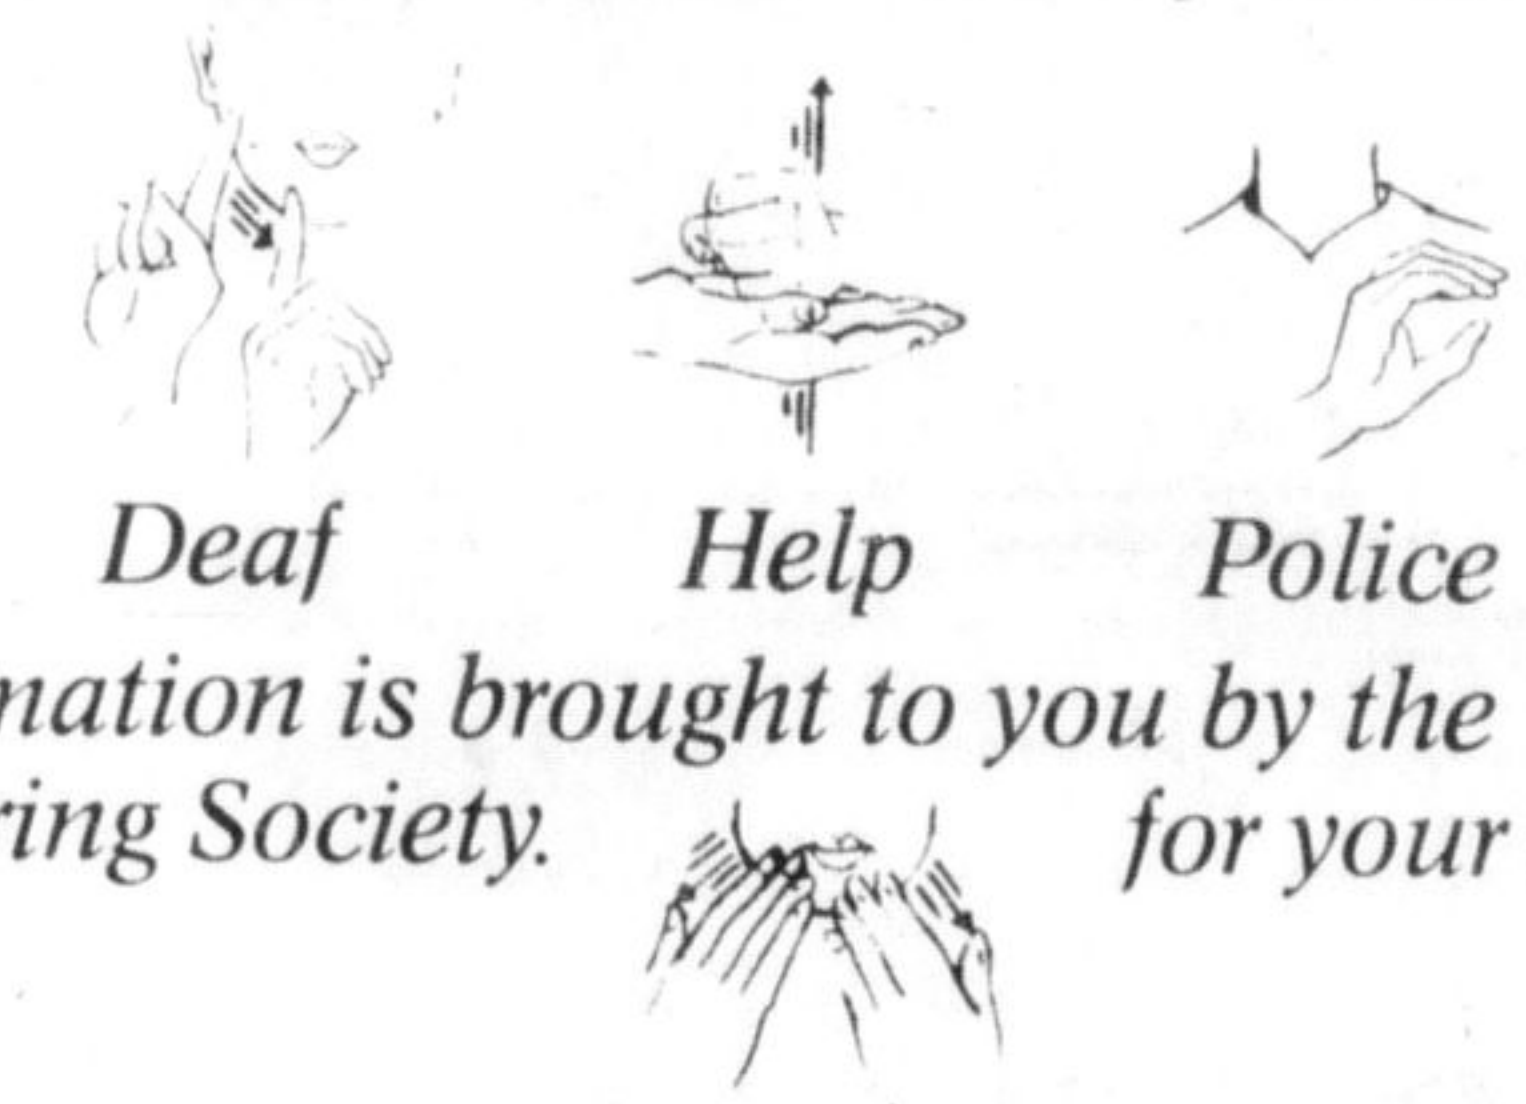

• Don't eat, chew, smoke or laugh while you're speaking.

• Rephrase your remarks if you're not being understood.

• Don't hesitate to write your message down.

When you're speaking with someone who uses sign language:

- Be imaginative. Help explain with your hands.
- Learn these few basic phrases.

Car slams pole, house

A 17-year-old Milton youth suffered minimal injuries after the car he was driving went out of control and struck a house and pole Saturday evening, May 12.

According to Halton Regional Police, Ian Robinson of 405 Ontario St. was northbound on Bronte St. when he lost control of the 1972 Mercury on wet pavement.

Police said he struck a house and hydro pole. Damage to the Mercury is estimated at $1,500 and $500 to the house and pole.

Glen Eden deficit

Glen Eden Ski Area lost money during the past ski season.

At a meeting of the executive committee of Halton Region Conservation Authority, manager Bill Warwick told the group the popular ski resort lost a total of $8,278.

Despite the loss, the Authority recorded an improved income for the ski area over past years.

Glen Eden earned a total of $364,558.39 including $18,786 worth of ski lesson sales.

In its 1978-79 budget, the Conservation Authority anticipated only $9,500 worth of ski lessons.

Executive committee members agreed Glen Eden staff should be commended for their efforts despite the deficit.

Mr. Warwick explained part of the costs stemmed from the fact the Authority is still waiting for a $133,000 Wintario grant. The Authority paid an extra $10,000 on a bank loan last year waiting for the Wintario grant.

Mr. Warwick said he expects the grant to be paid in the near future.
