

Firemen campaign for $8,000 to buy rescue tool

The Jaws lift a dash off a trapped man

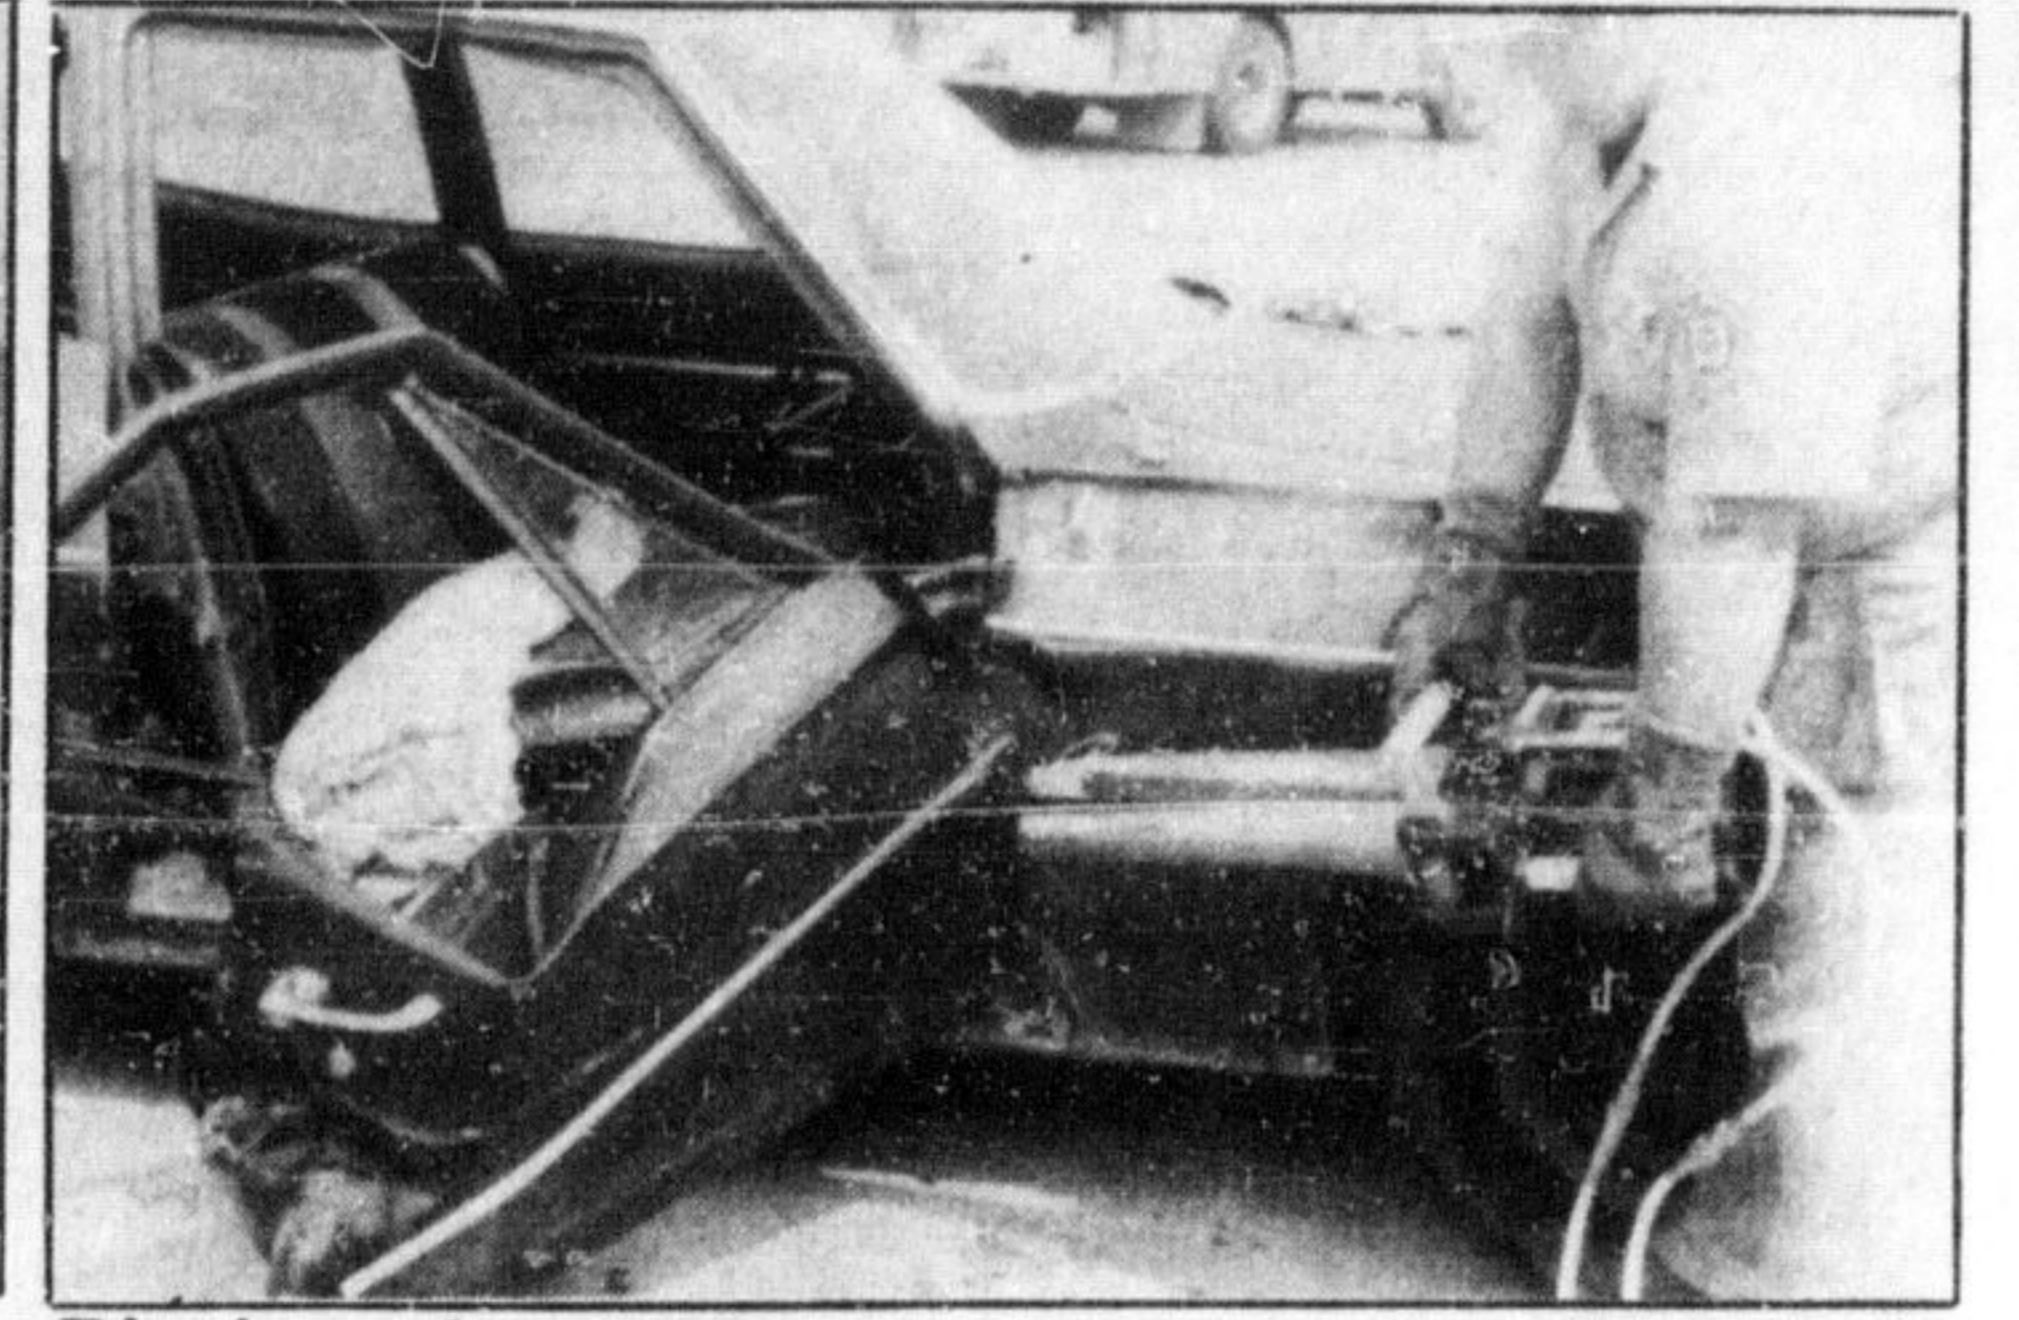

Strong enough to lift a car, bus, or truck

Cutting a roof support

Pulling out a windshield

Ripping a door off a wrecked car

MILTON FIRE DEPARTMENT is seeking to raise at least $8,000 to purchase a rescue tool, similar to the Hurst "Jaws of Life" illustrated above. Fire Chief Jim Coulson snapped the photos last week at a rescue demonstration in Scarborough, where the Jaws unit was put to work ripping apart a wrecked car. The unit would come in handy when the fire department is called to highway accidents

Seek mill information

Dear Editor:
We are Dutch-Canadian and enjoyed your steam show very much. We were really interested to note your show was the only place without a game of chance like the ones which spoil so many other shows today.

We noticed a millstone lying by a house at Bronte St. and we wonder if the owner or anyone else could supply us with a story of the mills in the town in the past. We reply to every letter.

Story worth printing

Dear Editor:
A special thank-you to all concerned for the story on Gus Goutouski. I am just wondering why it took such a long time to get around to writing about this fine gentleman, as any story about this kind and gentle person is worth writing and reading.
If only everyone knew how much good this man does, it is fantastic the energy and time he spends on others, forgetting himself, and to serve this community. We should be proud that Gus and his delightful family chose

Milton as their home.
I have been a recipient of the kindness Gus spreads around. I wish him all the best in life — for he deserves nothing but the best.

Thanks, Champion, for letting us see Mr. Goutouski as he really is — a great guy and a good friend who makes our lives better just by knowing him. And God bless you, Gus.

Yours truly,
Edith Sharpe,
Millside Dr., Milton.

Contact centre seeks funding

The North Halton Contact Centre is looking at ways to raise money to keep the crisis intervention service going.

Mrs. Kathy Hulley, public relations representative said there is not enough money for the centre to continue operations into 1980.

"I don't have the exact figures, but our treasurer said we are about $600 to $700 short," she said.

None of the centre's 50 volunteers or executive are paid.
Money is needed to operate telephones and pay rent.

The centre handles about 9,000 calls a year from people in distress.

Mrs. Hulley said the centre looks to service clubs, businesses and municipalities for funding. She said she is "disappointed."

"We don't get support from businesses. They fund hockey teams and baseball teams but they don't help us out.

"They have employees here and are located here so they are really helping themselves," she said.
Mrs. Hulley said any financial support would be gratefully accepted. It can be sent to the centre,

P.O. Box 85, Georgetown, L7G 4T1.

"The other method of raising funds is the establishment of a group of people to be known as the Friends of the Contact Centre.
