Docs & Dents find victory

Milton Docs & Dents came up with a total team effort although being eliminated in the third game at a tournament in Fort Erie on the weekend.

Against Hespeler, Milton avenged a loss to the team which eliminated the medics from the Milton Beaver tourney.

Before we get to the news and views of this week's column, there's a minor discrepancy left over from last week which should be rectified. Our problem centres around Larry McPhail, who plays second on a rather successful mixed curling rink.

Last week, while reporting the exploits of his team, I mistakenly referred to the second as Larry Platt. Naturally, Mr. McPhail was somewhat perturbed by this error. He was also of the opinion that such a mistake would cause great consternation among other club members.

Your reporter, on the other hand, felt the great majority of said members would not be all that concerned. To prove this point, a simple quiz has been devised, which you will find below. Circle your desired answer, tear off and mail to The Champion. Results will be tabulated, and published next week. Here's the quiz:

- "You made a mistake about Larry McPhail, eh? That's funny, I
- didn't notice.
  - don't care
  - noticed, but don't care
  - have never heard of Larry McPhail!

Now to the good stuff. The "rather" successful mixed rink I referred to earlier became a 'very' successful rink last Wednesday night in Oakville. Jack Fraser, with Babs Wingrove at vice, Larry what's-his-name at second, and Lynn Fraser at lead, handily defeated Orangeville to win the Divisional playoffs in the Seagram's mixed competition.

With all four Milton curlers shooting a very high percentage, Orangeville picked up after eight ends.

Jack and his rink now go to the Inter-Divisional playoffs in Norwich, Sunday, February 10. This is a four-rink competition and the two best rinks move on to the provincial finals. Let's try to get some supporters out there to cheer them on; it should be a great day of curling.

As expected Ronnie Rowley's rink is Milton Curling Club's representative in the Colts Divisional playoffs. Last Sunday, Ronnie and his team of Ken Armstrong, Steve Brancier and Loris Faggion beat a tough rink skipped by Bob Gould. Curling with Gould were Fred Bell, Doug Peddie, and Joey Johnson. They gave it a good effort but were unable to overcome a shaky start.

Rowley goes to Orangeville Friday night to begin the Divisionals. He expects his team to play well, and hopes to win, but won't be devastated if he doesn't. As he says: "Orangeville is nice this time of year."

Doug Peddie deserves a lot of credit. Playing in an incredibly tough draw last Saturday in the annual Co-op's Spiel, he managed to scoop the trophy by earning the most points for the day. You'll appreciate how difficult the task was when you see who he had to beat to win.

Curling with Doug were vice Irene Oldford, second Tony Segreto, and lead Shirley Gould. Doug wasn't surprised he won: "Give me three people who can find the rink, and I'll make them look like curlers."

Runner-up to Peddie in the first draw was a rink skipped by yours truly. (At last I get to write about someone interesting!) Fortunately, Linde Colven, Eddie Oldford, and Kim Thomas were all having a good day. Actually, this dynamite foursome was only 1/2 point away from winning the trophy, and as Oldford said repeatedly: "If my skip could have made his only pressure shot of the day, we'd have been there. Now I may never get my name on a trophy!"

The squad lost the first game to Whitby by a 4-0 margin before waltzing past Hespeler 3-0 in the second game. The medics were finally stopped when Fort Erie "won" 3-2 in the third game.

Milton needed to beat Fort Erie to remain in the tourney. Both teams were drawn 2-2 in the last minute of play when Milton pulled their goalie but Fort Erie scored with one second remaining to end the Docs & Dents' hopes.

The fact Milton was very much in the Fort Erie contest is a credit to the team. Fort Erie stands first in their league which includes several good AAA teams while Milton was just recently moved up to the AA grouping.

Against Fort Erie, Milton scored twice in the last three minutes of play to knot the score 2-2. Fort Erie had scored one in the first and on another midway through the third.

Shawn Hasselfeldt and Todd Hlushko scored Milton's goals. Fort Erie was awarded the final goal when Milton defender Jason Bahman threw his stick at the puck entering the vacated Milton goal. Netminder Steven Dall performed admirably in the nets kicking out 11 drives.

Against Hespeler, Milton avenged a loss to the team which eliminated the medics from the Milton Beaver tourney.

Hasselfeldt put Milton ahead 1-0 converting a nice pass from Bahman late in the opening period.

The score held up until one minute remained in the game when hot shooter Matt McCandless fired a blistering wrist shot after stealing the puck and skating in alone on a break.

Warren House finished off the scoring notching a goal into the empty net. Team management were impressed with the efforts of the entire team and praised the players for giving 100 per cent effort.

In Tri-County play last week, Milton and Georgetown played to a 4-4 tie Tuesday. McCandless fired two goals while Paul Allen and Hlushko added singles.

Sockets top Kitchener

Mark French fired two goals to pace Milton novice Sockets to a 4-1 victory over Kitchener in exhibition hockey action Saturday.

Jeff Maher and Kyle Hasselfeldt chipped in with singles while Shawn Healey assisted on two goals. Kevin Moffat and Robby Mifsud added single assists.

On Sunday Sockets dropped a 6-1 decision to Burlington at Memorial Arena. Sockets' play was not impressive as the
