THIRD SECTION—FEATURES

Philippines pavilion at St. Paul's Church; Finnigan School of Dance performer, 11-year-old Pam Simons of Milton; third row, Calum MacNeil of Cayuga shows off some real Scottish heather from the Isle of Barra; At the Latvian group's demonstration at Knox Church, Liliya Treimanis weaves costume ornaments; Punch and Judy Puppet Show entertained Lesley Gilbert of Milton at the English pavilion; Edelweiss Band leader Al Bachmann headlined the evening entertainment at the German tent in the fair grounds; Mary Buckley served up Irish Coffees with a smile at the Irish cottage in Holy Rosary Hall; BOTTOM ROW, A Dutch treat, china from Holland displayed by Tammy Brouwers, Armenian dancer getting on top of things; Kim Lingen, 3, enjoys a German pretzel; and Rev. Trevor Lewis reads Dylan Thomas at the Welsh pavilion.
