Weston - Appleton. At Grace Church on Sept. 27, Donna Appleton became Mrs. Timothy Weston.

Wedding

Weston—Appleton at Grace Church

On Saturday, Sept. 27, 1980, Donna Leah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Appleton of Milton, and Timothy Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Weston of London, exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony at

Grace Anglican Church, Milton, with Rev. Peter Ford officiating. The organist was Robert Argall, also playing Largo and Theme from Love Story. The maid of honor was Susan Sheridan of Milton, a friend of the bride and bridesmaids were Deborah Merkle of Ottawa and Karen Appleton of Milton, sisters of the bride. The best man was Joseph Isenor of London, a friend of the groom. Ushers were Blair Appleton, brother of the bride from Milton, and John Weston, brother of the groom from London. Following the ceremony, a dinner and dance were held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Leonard Appleton of Peterborough, uncle and godfather of the bride, was master of ceremonies and Thomas Appleton of Ailsa Craig, uncle of the bride, proposed a toast to the bride. The bride carried a beautiful blue silk lace handkerchief, over 75 years old, which was borrowed from a special friend.

Between the Willows

Zapping around

By Don Byers

It seems to me that nothing November arrived this year in the middle of October, complete with scowling skies and chilling winds.

I'm sure a contributing factor has been the early appearance of pre-Christmas TV commercials, promoting children's toys and zany electronic games. Even Mother Nature must have become confused.

A more certain sign of the times was the return, at my dining room window, of the Red Baron, the crazy cardinal that entertained me during the dreary months last winter. The cheery Chickadees are back, too, darting among the branches of the lilac bushes behind the back deck. Less welcome visitors, field mice, invaded one of the kitchen cupboards temporarily. I set two tricky traps (why do they still make them that way?) using the steadiness of hand and iron resolve of a brain surgeon. At the time of writing, I have snared three of the little devils.

Yes, late fall is here. Winter waits in the wings.

Brrrr!

Last week I appealed to the Hallowe'en goblins, that annually haunt Walker's Lane, to spare my battered, old mailbox. I'll never know whether my plaintive plea got through or not. Late Saturday night, a week before "trick or treat," a car zapped off the road, wiped out our mailbox, and plunged into the steep ditch at the foot of the driveway.

Our first knowledge of the incident was the sight of the flashing lights of the two truck and police cruiser, down below.

Son Dave, who arrived on the scene as the car was being pulled out, reported a badly bashed windshield. I can think of more enjoyable ways to get a headache.

Tuesday night, Oct. 17, we had a choice of two horror stories on the tube. One was "The Reading of the Budget", the other, "Carter vs. Reagan". While both programs played to record audiences, I doubt either was popular enough to become a series. I certainly hope not.

I found "C vs. R" particularly upsetting. As I watched the two main characters on my screen, a nagging, raspy voice in my brain kept asking: "Can you believe it?"

"Within a week, one of these guys is to be President of the United States of America—the most awesome and important responsibility in the Western World. You've got to be kidding!"

By the time this piece appears in print, the Americans will have their choice—a decision I am very happy I was not called upon to make. Hell, I could hear the coins flipping in polling booths, Stateside, from here. "Let's see. Heads Jimmy, Tails Ronnie. "Either way I lose."

Zapping right along: Those of you who have been following the progress of our crabapple wine-making may be interested to know that the aromatic mixture is now settling in two one-gallon jugs, lightly corked.

The large kettles that have made walking hazardous for weeks in the kitchen have been put away. We are still not sure what we have bottled—and won't be for six months.

I think I can wait.

G. Bunch vacates library seat

Milton trustee Angelo Tonelli has been asked by the Halton Separate School Board to find a new Board representative on the Milton Public Library Board.

The Catholic Board received notice from the library board that Gary Bunch, the appointed representative, had missed three consecutive meetings and has vacated the seat.

The new appointed representative would finish out the term which ends December 31. Bunch was described as a dedicated and valued member.
