Grants killed

Deputy Prime Minister Allan MacEachen has told Milton Council he will not change his mind about the cancellation of the Community Services Contribution Program which was announced recently. Both Milton and Halton Region have sent strong letters to Mr. MacEachen as Halton depends, or has depended, heavily on the grants to supplement a number of community programs, particularly in the health and social services field.

Ridership up

The popularity of Milton's local bus service is "picking up" with last year showing an increased ridership over previous years, according to Director of Finance Don Louhead. He told Milton Transit Committee last month's ridership was also up, adding the increase was expected with the additional bus routes. The number of high school students using Milton Transit has decreased with the opening of E.C. Drury High School, but the future of the bus service leaves Mr. Louhead optimistic.
