Lease to be finalized

Finalizing the terms of the lease is all that remains before a day care centre can be opened in a vacant portion of Halton Centennial Manor.

Regional council recently confirmed its support for the proposal which will create space for 32 children in an extended hours day care centre at the regionally operated home for the aged.

Acting on a recommendation of the health and social services committee, councillors agreed that while no market value rent would be charged for the 3,200 square feet to be leased to Family Place, a non-profit corporation to be operated by the Halton Children's Aid Society, all costs of renovation and a portion of the Manor operating costs would be financed by the CAS.

Space at the Manor has become available because of declining demand for beds in the dormitory section and a soaring demand for space in the intensive care section.

UFFI help is urged

Homeowners with urea formaldehyde foam insulation should have more assistance to get rid of the hazardous material than the federal government is offering, Regional councillors decided recently.

Acting on a recommendation from the health and social services committee, councillors voted to send a letter to the federal Minister of health and welfare urging that financial assistance, recently announced for homeowners with the insulation, be increased and that no time limit be placed on the assistance program.

Severance appeal is granted

An appeal against a land severance granted a Milton resident will be continued, Regional councillors decided recently.

Councillors supported a planning and public works committee recommendation appealing a decision granting a severance to the estate of Henry MacLeod because the severance was contrary to the policies laid down in the Regional official plan.

Veil of secrecy

A veil of secrecy has been dropped over a list of people who owe money to Halton Region.

Councillors voted to keep secret a list of bills recommended to be written off by the administration and finance committee.

Totalling $60,000, the list is a compilation of accounts the Region has so far been unable to collect. That doesn't mean however, that collection action has stopped, chief administrative officer Dennis Perlin said.

Members of the administration and finance committee had first recommended that the confidential stamp be removed from the list, but since that time several concerns raised by Regional staff convinced them to drop the curtain back into place.

TV contract for sewer watching

A Burlington company has been awarded a Regional contract to rent television equipment to be used in sewer maintenance.

Regional councillors recently gave their approval to a contract with Trans-Video Inspection Ltd., to rent closed circuit equipment at a cost of $358 per unit per day.

The equipment will be used to carry out maintenance inspections of sewer mains.

Art in the park planned

In an effort to showcase the abundance of local talent they believe exists here, two Milton artists are organizing a summer arts festival.

Called 'Art In The Park,' the proposal has been created to promote the exhibition of Milton artists and crafts people for the display and sale of their works to fellow residents.

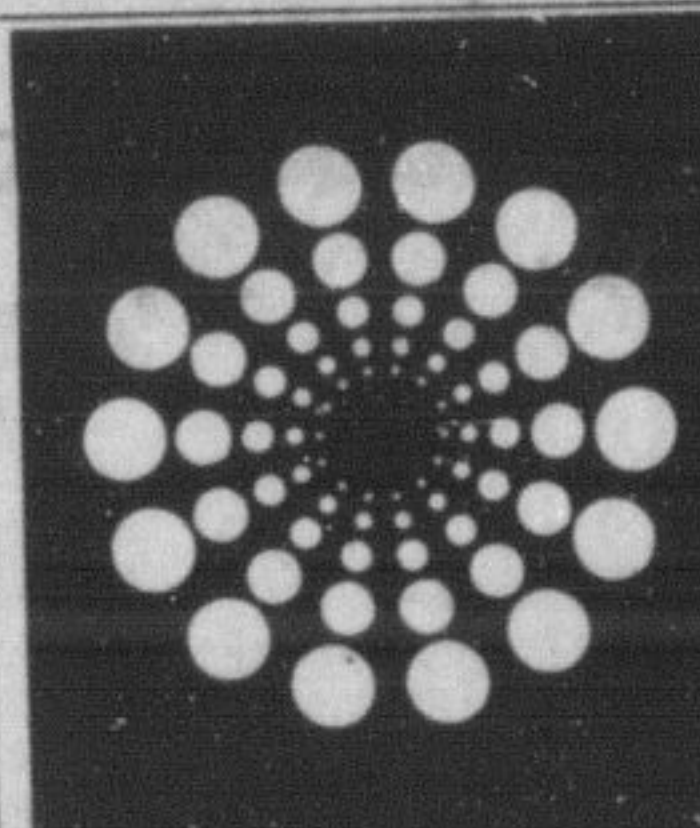

Albert J. (Bert) Casson, a well known wildlife artist, and Kim De Bruyn, a former Milton District High School students' council president who does stained glass, are the organizers of this concept.

They have approached Milton Rotary Club to hold the exhibition on June 19, 20 and 21, 1982 at John Martin House, an historic home backing onto the Mill Pond.
