What to Check

Regular Inspection, Care Key to Vehicle Longevity

A key to vehicle longevity is regular inspection and maintenance of your car, according to the Automotive Parts & Accessories Association. APAA suggests you adopt the following program:

Every Tank of Gas — Check windshield washer fluid. Check tire pressure. Check power steering fluid level. Check battery water level. Check oil level. Check belt condition. Check hydraulic brake fluid.

Every 6 Months or 6,000 Miles — Change engine oil. Change oil filter. Clean and regap spark plugs. Check hoses and clamps. Check lights and turn signals. Check antifreeze/coolant condition. Check air conditioner operation. Check differential fluid level. Lubricate chassis.

Every 12 Months or 12,000 Miles — Check emission controls. Replace spark plugs. Replace points and condenser (set dwell and timing). Check compression. Replace air filter. Replace fuel filter. Replace PCV valve. Inspect distributor cap and rotor.

Every 24 Months or 24,000 Miles — Flush cooling system. Replace antifreeze/coolant. Replace spark plug wires. Replace distributor cap and rotor.

As Necessary — Replace wiper blades. Replace shock absorbers. Rotate tires. Align front wheels. Replace brakes. Repack wheel bearings. Repair body rust and perform other body maintenance. Wax and polish. Protect vinyl top appearance. Clean battery terminal.
