

The "Milton Midgets" accordion band went to Niagara Falls at the Sheraton Hotel in competition with other accordion bands all over Ontario by Conservatory of Music. They did very well and came in third with a score of 81. From left to right are Stephen Fleet, Nicole Stelter, Rosanne Marchesich, Tammy Harvey and Eric Nielsen. Their teacher is Miss J. Ryerkirk. They all received first class marks on their solos.

Provincial cuts hurt social services budget

Provincial subsidy cutbacks have blown a $1.1 million hole in two of Halton Region's social service budgets.

Members of the administration and finance committee were told recently that because subsidies from the Province have only increased 11 per cent over last year, Halton is facing a deficit in its budgets for the Halton Centennial Manor and day care programs.

Dennis Perlin, chief administrative officer said the subsidy allocations received from the Province were held to an 11 per cent increase because that is all that the Ministry of Community and Social Services was given.

The Manor faces a deficit of $691,272 while day care programs will be short $431,900.

Mr. Perlin explained the Manor needed higher subsidies because of a heavy bill for retroactive wage increases being faced this year.

"Provincial staff have expressed satisfaction with the budget for the Manor, but they have to be shown where the needs of this home are different from others," he said.

While committee members approved a motion directing Regional chairman Jack Raftis to write to Social Services Minister Frank Drea expressing concern over the subsidies, Mr. Perlin said steps were being taken to do what is possible in Halton.

"We are going through these budgets very carefully to see what we can pare," he said, adding, "as I understand it, the day care budget is under control, but the Manor will be very difficult."

In addition to those spaces, Halton staff also requested an expansion of 85 subsidized day care spaces.
