

Questions linger about super-board

calls for 14 to come from Toronto, while Halton has only two, based on population.

Mr. Challinor said Milton is currently under-represented at Halton Region and will not be represented at all in the GTSB. Councillor Colin Best warned against a situation where mayors make up the majority of board members. "Mayor's are the most parochial, present company excepted," he said. "It will be hard to get mayors to do anything in cooperation."

Mr. Farrow said mayors are elected to represent the whole town or city and are thus the best representatives to the board. "I've been known to be parochial from time to time when it's in the best interest of Miltonians," said Mayor Gord Krantz. Councillor Rick Day was the most outspoken against the proposed board. He said what makes Milton great is local control of decisions and the lack of large scale development.

He warned his colleagues to stay away from anything connected with Toronto. Councillor Brian Penman agreed with him.

"The needs of Metro will be the needs on the table first and foremost and the needs most likely to be dealt with given the representation," said Mr. Penman.

He added the political climate in Toronto, given the mega-city debate, is not conducive to the spirit of cooperation necessary to operate the GTSB.

Mr. Farrow said that the large number of studies on the Greater Toronto Area all point to developing more cooperation between municipalities.

"There are many studies which indicate the Toronto area falls together," he said. The Town of Milton will forward details of its position on the GTSB to Al Leach, the minister of municipal affairs. Mr. Leach is expected to introduce legislation to form the GTSB in the early fall.

If you're a natural gas customer, read on

You have a choice to make

The natural gas industry is changing. It's being deregulated. This means you can now choose who you buy your natural gas from, much like when long distance telephone services were deregulated.

At Union Energy, an affiliate of Union Gas, we want to help you understand these important changes in the natural gas industry. And we'd like to give you free information that will help you make an informed decision when choosing your natural gas supplier.

Call toll free 1 888 774-2222

8:00 am - 9:30 pm, 7 days a week, excluding holidays and we'll send you a free booklet on natural gas deregulation and information about Union Energy.

The price of gas under this service is not regulated by the Ontario Energy Board. Limited time offer. Offer available to Residential Customers only.

10% off for one year

Plus
50% off a premium carbon monoxide detector

We guarantee you a natural gas price for one year that's 10% less than the price you're paying Union Gas. This 10% discount applies to the price of natural gas charged by the utility at the time of your gas delivery.
