

HALLOWE'EN DIDN'T GO unnoticed by children spending the holiday in Milton District Hospital's paediatrics ward—it came to them! Members of the Milton Kinette Club got dressed in weird costumes and paid a visit, bearing gifts from several local merchants and Halloween decorations from Robert Baldwin School. Kinettes in costume were Heather Hand and Becky Tonner, front; Carol Watson, Barbara Wood and Nancy McAulay.

Merchants help club throw hospital party

"The merchants in Milton are just fantastic," organizer Becky Tonner told The Champion Friday after she and four other Milton Kinette Club members paid a surprise visit to shut-ins at Milton District Hospital children's ward.

She rhymed off a list including Hornby Store, Mac's Milk, Stedman's, Harris Stationery, Milton Drug Mart, Alfonso's Fruit Market and Plaza Smoke and Gift Shop whose proprietors had freely donated gifts and goodies for the party, once they heard what it was for.

They also called Robert Baldwin School to see if there were any spare decorations and the students had soon rounded up enough to fill a truck.

A success Mrs. Tonner said the Kinettes didn't like to see the hospital shut-ins missing their Halloween outing, so they decided to take the party to them. From the looks on the children's faces, the idea was a roaring success.

She and Carol Watson, Barbara Wood, Heather Hand and Nancy McAulay got dressed up as a clown, witch, hobo, cave-man and rabbit. The costumes, decorations and a pile of gifts were all warmly welcomed by hospital patients and staffers alike.

Through the halls A treat of ice cream topped off the party for the five children confined to the paediatrics wing. Afterward the Kinettes paraded through the halls of the hospital, handing out balloons to the adult patients and provoking laughter among patients and staff.

It was hard to tell who enjoyed the party the most—the patients, the staff or the costumed Kinettes.

Bail refused Baron in triple shooting

A 49-year-old Acton stonemason charged with an attempted murder following a triple shooting last week was refused bail at a hearing in Milton on Monday.

Justice of the Peace Brian McDermott ended the 30-minute hearing by ordering handcuffed Horst Baron back to provincial cells in Milton.

Evidence heard included a statement of the accused made to Halton Regional Police shortly after his arrest last Monday night on his farm two miles east of Acton.

Bans publication But the Justice of the Peace imposed a ban on publication of evidence heard at the bail hearing.

Baron, a stocky man who wore a blue hunting shirt and work pants, showed no emotion when bail was refused.

Baron was charged with three counts of attempted murder after his wife Hilda, 50, and a man and his son who boarded with the family were each shot once in the chest with a .38 calibre revolver.

Mrs. Baron and Guy Mayer, 49, were seriously injured while nine-year-old Wayne Mayer was rushed to Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children where he was listed in critical condition.

Recovering All three victims remain in hospital and are reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday. Mrs. Baron is recovering in Guelph General Hospital and Guy Mayer in Toronto General Hospital.

Wayne Mayer, who was at first listed in critical condition at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, has had surgery and is recuperating well, according to police.

The triple shooting was the second tragedy to strike the Baron family in two years. A son Manfred, now 25, is serving a 14-year prison term in connection with the beating death in May, 1974, of his girlfriend's husband.

The girlfriend, Mrs. Regina Wertman of Toronto who was an instructor at a dance studio where Manfred took lessons, also received a 14-year term for her part in the killing.

Arrested at home Young Baron was arrested at the family farm after the slain husband's body was burned in an oil drum and then buried.

Mr. Baron is expected to remain in jail until his trial comes up sometime next year.

Hope for settlement in 16-day PO strike

The nation-wide postal strike continued this week and today entered its 16th day—but the end may be in sight.

Local strikers, members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said Tuesday they hear indications a settlement may be in the offing as negotiators had met through the night Monday and appeared to have two of the major issues settled. Surveillance and casual workers were two key points in the bargaining, they said, but according to news reports Tuesday morning those issues had been settled.

Just eight employees of Milton Post Office are CUPW members—six full time and two part time clerks. Three senior officials are still working each day but the 13 town letter carriers and six rural route carriers have had no work and no pay since the strike started Oct. 21.

Pickets are spending a few hours each day at the Main St. post office building.

The lung cripplers, asthma, emphysema, tuberculosis and bronchitis accounted for 90,886 cases in Canadian hospitals in 1972 and 1,077,622 patient days. Christmas Seal dollars fight these respiratory diseases.

HRCA board would change NEC boundaries

The Land Use Advisory Board of Halton Region Conservation Authority has made recommendations for revision of boundaries under the jurisdiction of the Niagara Escarpment Commission.

The HRCA report defines the areas on the face of the Escarpment in need of control along the brow and talus slopes.

They recommended the area above 403 Highway currently within the Parkway Belt be controlled by NEC. It was felt this area, a source of several watercourses and one of the most aesthetic areas of the Escarpment, could be in danger of future development. The Parkway Belt has been designated as a utility corridor as well as a greenbelt.

Quarry zoning Nelson Crushed Stone and its surrounding property was excluded in HRCA's recommendation as it is in a quarry zoning area and controlled by the Pits and Quarries Act.

Urban hamlets such as Kilbride and Campbellville have also been excluded because they contain no physical features of the Escarpment and are very difficult to control.

North of Kelso Conservation Area HRCA's report coincides with the existing NEC boundaries. The Grindstone Creek Valley has been left out as it is controlled by the Authority's fill and flood plain

Your Christmas Seal organization, the Halton Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, reports that 53,660 cases of bronchitis and emphysema were treated in Canadian hospitals in 1972 and that figure is increasing.

The proposed boundaries are under consideration by the full body of HRCA.
