Mannell back

Oakville councillor Terry Mannell is back as the town's representative on the Halton Region Conservation Authority. The popular politician was reappointed to the post he was forced to resign last month due to a conflicting schedule of meetings.

Controversy over the legality of HRCA's last meeting because of Mannell's alleged illegal attendance was quashed at the Authority's meeting Thursday night.

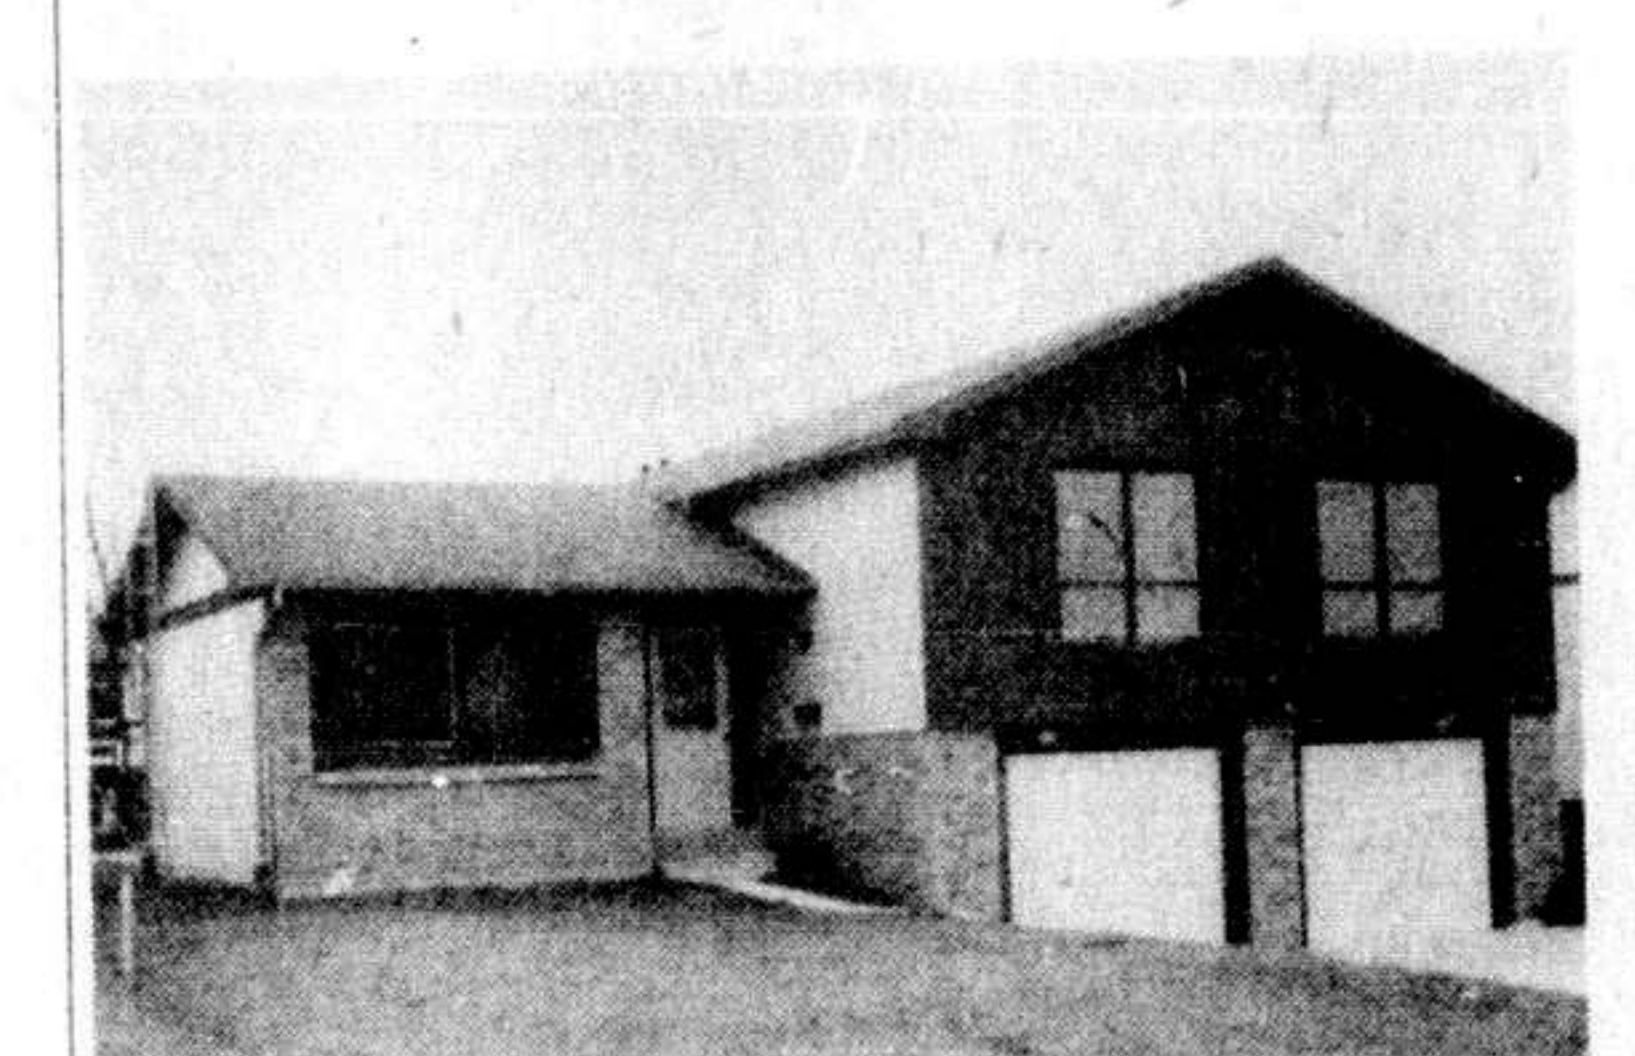

An asset Milton councillor Gordon Krantz, chairman of the meeting in question, said "We almost had him resigned at the beginning but he stayed on to the end. He's an asset as far as I'm concerned."

Halton Hills councillor Dick Howitt pointed out that even if Mannell's resignation had been accepted under the regulations, a member is entitled to one additional meeting.
