

Sounds like a night to savour

A culinary extravaganza tonight would make anybody's mouth water.

Members of the elite chefs' association Les Toques Blanches International's Golden Horseshoe chapter will gather for their inaugural dinner gala at the Bavarian Chalet.

The 130-member guest list will feature southern Ontario's top chefs as well as two international association dignitaries flying in from the United States. The event is sold out.

National president Taj JarAllah of the United States chapter will travel from Atlanta while the association's international ambassador Claude Richer will come north from Florida.

Ken Campbell throws his hat in the ring

Campbell, who in the past announced his intention to run for mayor to raise educational and pro-life issues, but didn't follow through.

He said he decided at the last minute to withdraw from the race upon discovering that he had less than unanimous support from his congregation at Emmanuel Baptist Church (now the Milton Bible Baptist Church).

However, this time the firm believer in the need for educational renewal said his intentions are serious and his campaign plans are already in motion.

"We'll be campaigning in support of the (Ontario Education Minister) Dave Johnson initiatives imple-

The American pair will be on hand to officially induct new members into the association's Golden Horseshoe chapter, which was started a year ago.

Other guests will include Milton Mayor Gord Krantz and area business people.

A team of about seven chefs will prepare the six-course meal, which will feature lobster, beef tenderloin and assorted wines, said chapter president Ed Colonerus of the Bavarian Chalet.

Other local members include membership director Larry Barringer of the specialty food distribution company Ultra Foods Inc. and Peter Stemmann, of Wally's Meats. Mr. Stemmann is the treasurer of the organization.

menting Bill 160 and all it represents."

He said he will prepare this weekend to open an election office and "roll into high gear" with "the most effective campaign we can muster to bring our 23-year-long crusade for education renewal to a strategic climax in this election."

For the next month, his daily 'Good News At Noon' radio broadcast on CJMR 1320 AM will be sponsored by his election campaign committee as 'Renaissance Report', he said.

Rev. Campbell joins Erica Andrew and Paul Tait in the race for the Milton position, which was reduced from two seats to one. Trustees Tim Kingsbury and Flo Belford are not seeking re-election.
