

More goals than O'ville gets shots

Recording more goals than their opponents did shots on net last Thursday, the Spectrum Airways Winterhawks claimed their second lopsided win of the still young 1997/98 season.

Arnie Parcels' AA major bantams out-shot Orangeville 32-6 in the friendly confines of Memorial Arena. As a result, they had little trouble skating away with a 7-2 victory.

Jordan Jeans and Jacob Vanderbreggen led the hit parade with hat-tricks — and combined for three assists.

Drawing three helpers himself was Bren Silk while Derek Mewhinney picked up two. Chris Wulfers chipped in Milton's other tally.

Josh Arnold got his first win between the pipes. The Spectrum Airways veteran goalie spent the night fighting off boredom rather than Orangeville attacks.

Family day at golf hall

It may be a little late to take in Canadian Open play, but there'll still be plenty to see at Glen Abbey this Sunday.

The world-famous course will host a special family day at its Canadian Golf Hall of Fame and Museum, from noon to 4 p.m. For only $4, families can visit the newly established Hall of Fame.

Among the interesting facts waiting to be uncovered are: The defending 1904 Olympic golf champion is a Canadian, and the Canadian Open is the third oldest championship in the world.

A big inning is meat of the matter

Playing grade A baseball, Wally's Meats capped the season by defeating Primus Print — to capture the Milton Men's Slo-Pitch League title.

Led by sponsor-mentor Pete Stemmann — whose bat was smoking — the meat cutters trimmed the print pack 13-5.

Their victory came on the strength of a seven-run eighth inning, highlighted by John Iantorno's long ball. Gary Chaisson, Paul Lemmon and Clive 'Jethro' Hubbard were other offensive standouts.

The balance of Meat-Boys, the "M's" — May, Miljour, Miller, Mulholland and Murphy, and the "B's" — Boughton, Bragg, Brancier and Bruzzese, were expertly directed by injured Terry Young, whose lineup played and won as a team.

Primus — a group proudly sponsored by Phil

Slo Pitch

with PAT GRANT

Dimaso — got to the final dance with a 3-1-1 playoff record. They played well throughout the final game until one big inning sealed their fate.

Consolation finalists Key Centre and Spencer Engineers played out the string, so to speak, with Howse's Horde smacking Mait's Mates 18-3.

As co-engineer Doug Leal stated, "we ran out of gas", an apt description for a team that pulled many upsets and finally brought the best out of the previously heavily-favored Key Cutters.

Both teams deserve high praise — the Engineers for their persistence minus some key personnel and the Key Crowd for coming back after earlier losses to display their winning season form.

Now come the questions. What happened to Halton Pool and Spa? Wasn't the Legion a lock, not to mention Aim? Were the Hofsters and Weasels not in on time for curfew? Who are Stumper and Gary Thomas trying to draft early? Is Urban going to scout, with Al Brodie of course, the winter leagues for Fred Bakes?

By next spring a lot of other thoughts will replace the above but that's what it's all about.

Kudos for kid duo

Shannon Laing and Aaron Reese were named top athletes in their age groups at the recent North American Invitational Track and Field Championships in Cleveland.

Ten-year-old Reese's honour came on the strength of a 32.9 second victory in the 200-metre dash.

Laing, eight, won all five events in her mite girls class.

The two Milton tracksters have moved indoors for the winter, along with the rest of their Athletiques International club mates.

They train Wednesday nights at Milton District High School. Those interested in attending training sessions should call Bruce Burton at (905) 827-8725.

They're five for six

Quick out of the gate, the Sandstone Transport AA Midget Winterhawks have scored wins in five of their first six outings.

Their lone defeat came in a 6-2 decision to Orangeville. This came smack-dab in the middle of victories over Chinguacousy (5-2, 7-5), Georgetown (6-1), Guelph (6-3) and Burlington (4-1).

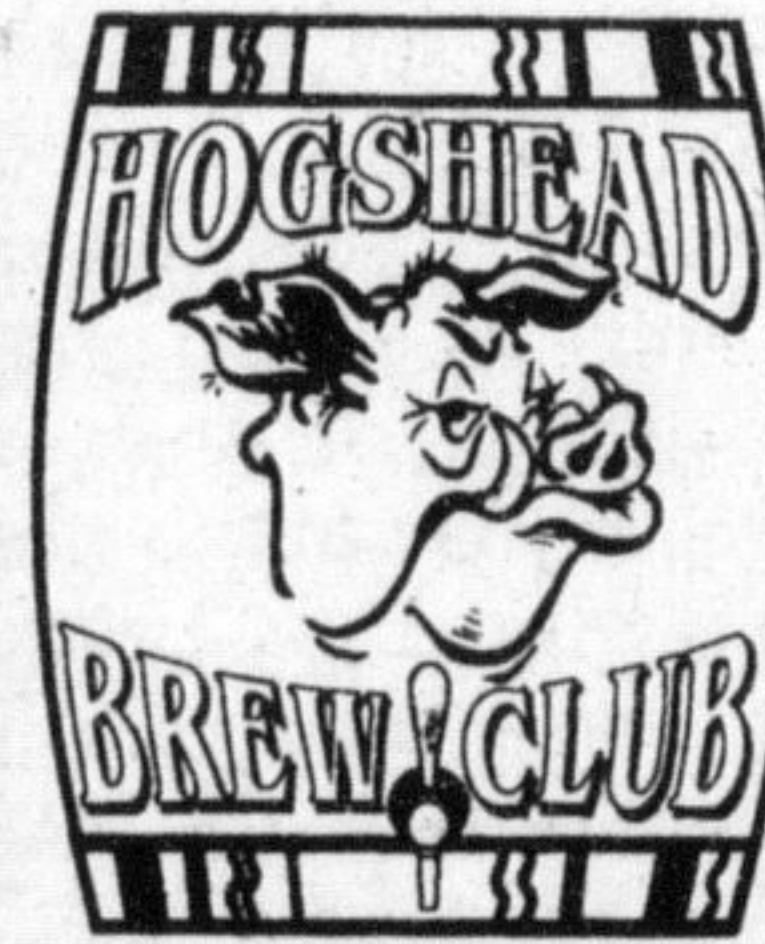

Leading the charge through the early stages of the season has been veteran Cory Leigh, who has scored nine goals.

Jason Ford and Steve Szafer have tallied four times each while Bobby McKnight has collected three goals.

Blair Beaulieu and Brent Van Loosen have been regular set-up men.
