

Juggling is for Circus Performers, Not Your Investments.

You're busy enough with your day to day living. When was the last time you sat down and thought about what you have, what you would like to have, and what you will need to do to get there? Do you really have time to track portfolios, and analyze investments and the resulting tax implications?

Take control. Now is the time to sit down and decide what you want. I can help you determine which path to take in order to get there. My name is Melissa DeBrouwer, and I am a Chartered Financial Planner. It is my job all year round to help people plan their financial future, so that they can enjoy their present.
