Committee supports raises

• from CITIZENS on page 11

With the tax-free provision councillors make $12,034 after taxes, while the chairman takes home $46,059 on salaries of $18,705 for councillors and $71,226 for the chairman.

Without the tax-free allowance councillors would take home $8,792 and the chairman $33,476, according to the report.

The new policies would restore take-home pay levels in the event the tax free provision is disallowed.

The committee said in its report that pay levels should attract quality candidates to municipal office, while at the same time, not being so high as to beckon people simply because of the income.
