Brie with Roasted Garlic and Olives

1 whole head garlic
1 fresh rosemary sprig
1/4 c (2 fl oz/60ml) extra-virgin olive oil
2 wheels (4oz/125g each) Brie cheese
1/4 c (1oz/40g) sliced Kalamata olives
1/4 c (2oz/60g) sliced dry-packed sun-dried tomatoes, reconstituted in water to cover, drained and cut into julienne strips
2 tbsp pine nuts, lightly toasted
2 tbsp minced fresh flat-leaf (Italian) parsley
2 tbsp minced fresh basil

Preheat oven to 375 F (190C).
Remove any loose papery skin from the garlic head and place the garlic in a small baking dish. Add the rosemary sprig and olive oil, then cover tightly with aluminum foil. Bake until garlic is soft when the cloves are pierced with a knife, about 35 minutes. Remove from oven and cool.
Raise oven temperature to 400F (200C).
Using a sharp knife, slice the thin rind off the top of each Brie wheel. Place the wheels on an overproof serving plate. Press the garlic cloves free from their skins and spread the garlic evenly on the trimmed surface of each Brie wheel. Top with the olives, sun-dried tomatoes and pine nuts. Bake, uncovered, until the Brie is warm and softened, about 12 minutes.
Remove from the oven and sprinkle with the parsley and basil. Serves 8-10
