Ball hockey league will step up the competition

He may not be able to dub it 'March Madness', but Fab Giannuzzi will enjoy his own version of the final four this summer.

He'll do so through his ongoing, on-growing Milton Ball Hockey League. For the first time in its five-year existence, the MBHL's top finisher will vie for a regional championship.

Giannuzzi, MBHL's founder and operator, has spearheaded a final four tournament with leagues from Oakville, Burlington and Ottawa.

Winners from each loop will descend on local arenas in late July or early August and battle for inter-league bragging rights. "I was the one who got this rolling, so the regional tournament will be held in Milton for the first year," said an exuberant Giannuzzi. "I'm really excited that the other leagues agreed to the final four playoffs. This should really boost local participation."

He's expecting to attract between 12 and 16 teams this summer and split the MBHL into two conferences; one a men's competitive division and the other a recreational loop for the less serious player.

"It's guys like the Haydars and the McPhails who make up the men's competitive division and will have a chance to go after the regional title," Giannuzzi explained.

"The league has grown from four to 12 teams in just five years, which is surprising since there's so many other men's summer sports to play like slo-pitch ball and flag football."

The MBHL offers a 15-week regular season. Games are held Sunday and Monday nights, with no weekend competition scheduled.

The cost for joining either conference is $100 per person or $1,300 per team.

The deadline for registration is March 31. The season starts the third week of April. For more information, call Fab Giannuzzi at 875-2688.
