help by showing pay stubs because the deal had been strictly barter — so many hours of farm labour in return for accommodation.

Now the house is vacant because the previous labourer has moved on. He said the house needs maintenance but it is difficult to get farm help while offering the house for barter when the matter is still pending.

Mr. Martins presented a petition with 10 signatures of neighbours supporting his position. However, Councillor John Challinor rejected the petition, saying he has never been concerned with them. He tried to get Mr. Martins to explain why he has failed to tear down the home, despite being given five years to do so.

Mr. Martins explained that before his slaughterhouse was shut down in 1992 he did not need the original house. However as his circumstances changed and his farm operations grew he needed the house to barter for labour. Dwellings for farm labour are common in the area, according to Mr. Martins.

Councillor Brian Penman said the speed with which the slaughterhouse proposal was dropped indicated it was simply a diversion to confuse the issue of the house.

1998 Fall Fair ambassador wanted

A chance to represent Milton at various functions, including the CNE, is up for grabs thanks to the Halton Agricultural Society.

The society sponsors the Milton Fall Fair, and is looking for a 1998-99 fair ambassador.

The opportunity is open to both young women and men interested in representing the Fall Fair at various events, including the 1999 CNE.

Contestants must be between 17 and 23 years old as of August 1, 1998.

Entry forms can be picked up at the Milton Fairgrounds office Tuesdays or Thursdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. starting August 4. Entries close August 19 and judging is August 26 at Hugh Foster Hall, beginning at 8 p.m.

The public is welcome to attend the judging session.

Kristen Ransberry, the 1997-98 Milton Fall Fair ambassador, will be honoured at that time as she passes on her title.

Camp held for children with asthma

The Lung Association of Halton Region is again offering a summer camp for kids who suffer from asthma.

The camp is at Bronte Creek Provincial Park in Oakville, and runs from Tuesday Aug. 4 through Friday Aug. 14. The fee is $50 per week per child.

The camp allows the children to feel less self-conscious about asthma than they often do in a setting with children who aren't afflicted.

"There's been a good reception from the kids who feel uncomfortable taking their medication in public or at school," said camp counsellor Romina Corsini.

Phone the Lung Association in Oakville for more information at 847-1033.
