Destination of the Month:

Cruising the Caribbean

Cruising is rapidly becoming the preferred choice of package holidays. Just look at these exciting out of the ordinary ports of call that various cruises now visit:

Montego Bay, Jamaica

Rub punch, steel drum bands, strands of near-perfect beaches, legendary plantation Great Houses, tropical days and pulsing nightlife make 'MoBay' an ideal home port. Try river rafting, or sneak a peek at Negril while you're here.

Cancun, Mexico

Set on the Yucatan Peninsula within reach of the celebrated, pre-Columbian ruins of the Maya, Mexico's most popular resort destination, sensuous Cancun, appears as a 12-mile ribbon of exquisite beach, lazing between the Caribbean and jungle lagoons.

Cozumel, Mexico

Blessed with underdevelopment, copious wildlife and glorious beaches encircled by a garland of spectacular reefs, graceful Cozumel ranks as one of the planet's 5 finest destinations among underwater enthusiasts. Mayan ruins, giant turtles, rare black coral. Cozumel has it all.

Havana, Cuba

Fortress and four centuries of history surround you as you follow the steps of Hemingway to the legendary Floridita bar on Opispo Street, explore the National Museum of fine art, linger beneath royal palms in Plaze de Armas or in the galleries and shops of Cathedral Square.

Isla de Pinos, Cuba

Largest of a 350-island Archipelago; softly undulating with marble hills and punctuated with natural grottoes, dramatic beaches, vast citrus orchards and pine forests, this rare and unusual port-of-call once served as a refuge for corsairs, and a prison(!) for political exiles.

Gand Cayman, BWI

Literally the top of an underwater mountain soaring from depths four times greater than the Grand Canyon, glossy Grand Cayman (the "Super Bowl of Scuba") is trimmed with 7 mile of platinum beach, sunken wrecks and protected underwater gardens. Quietly rich, and it shows!

Puerto Limon, Costa Rica

This authentic banana-trading outpost on the Caribbean shore of Costa Rica's ecological wonderland provides ideal access to thrilling rain forest excursions and swaths of virgin beaches. Beneath the Jamaican/Spanish patios of the streets and market, the rhythms are Latin and Soul.

Cristobal, Panama

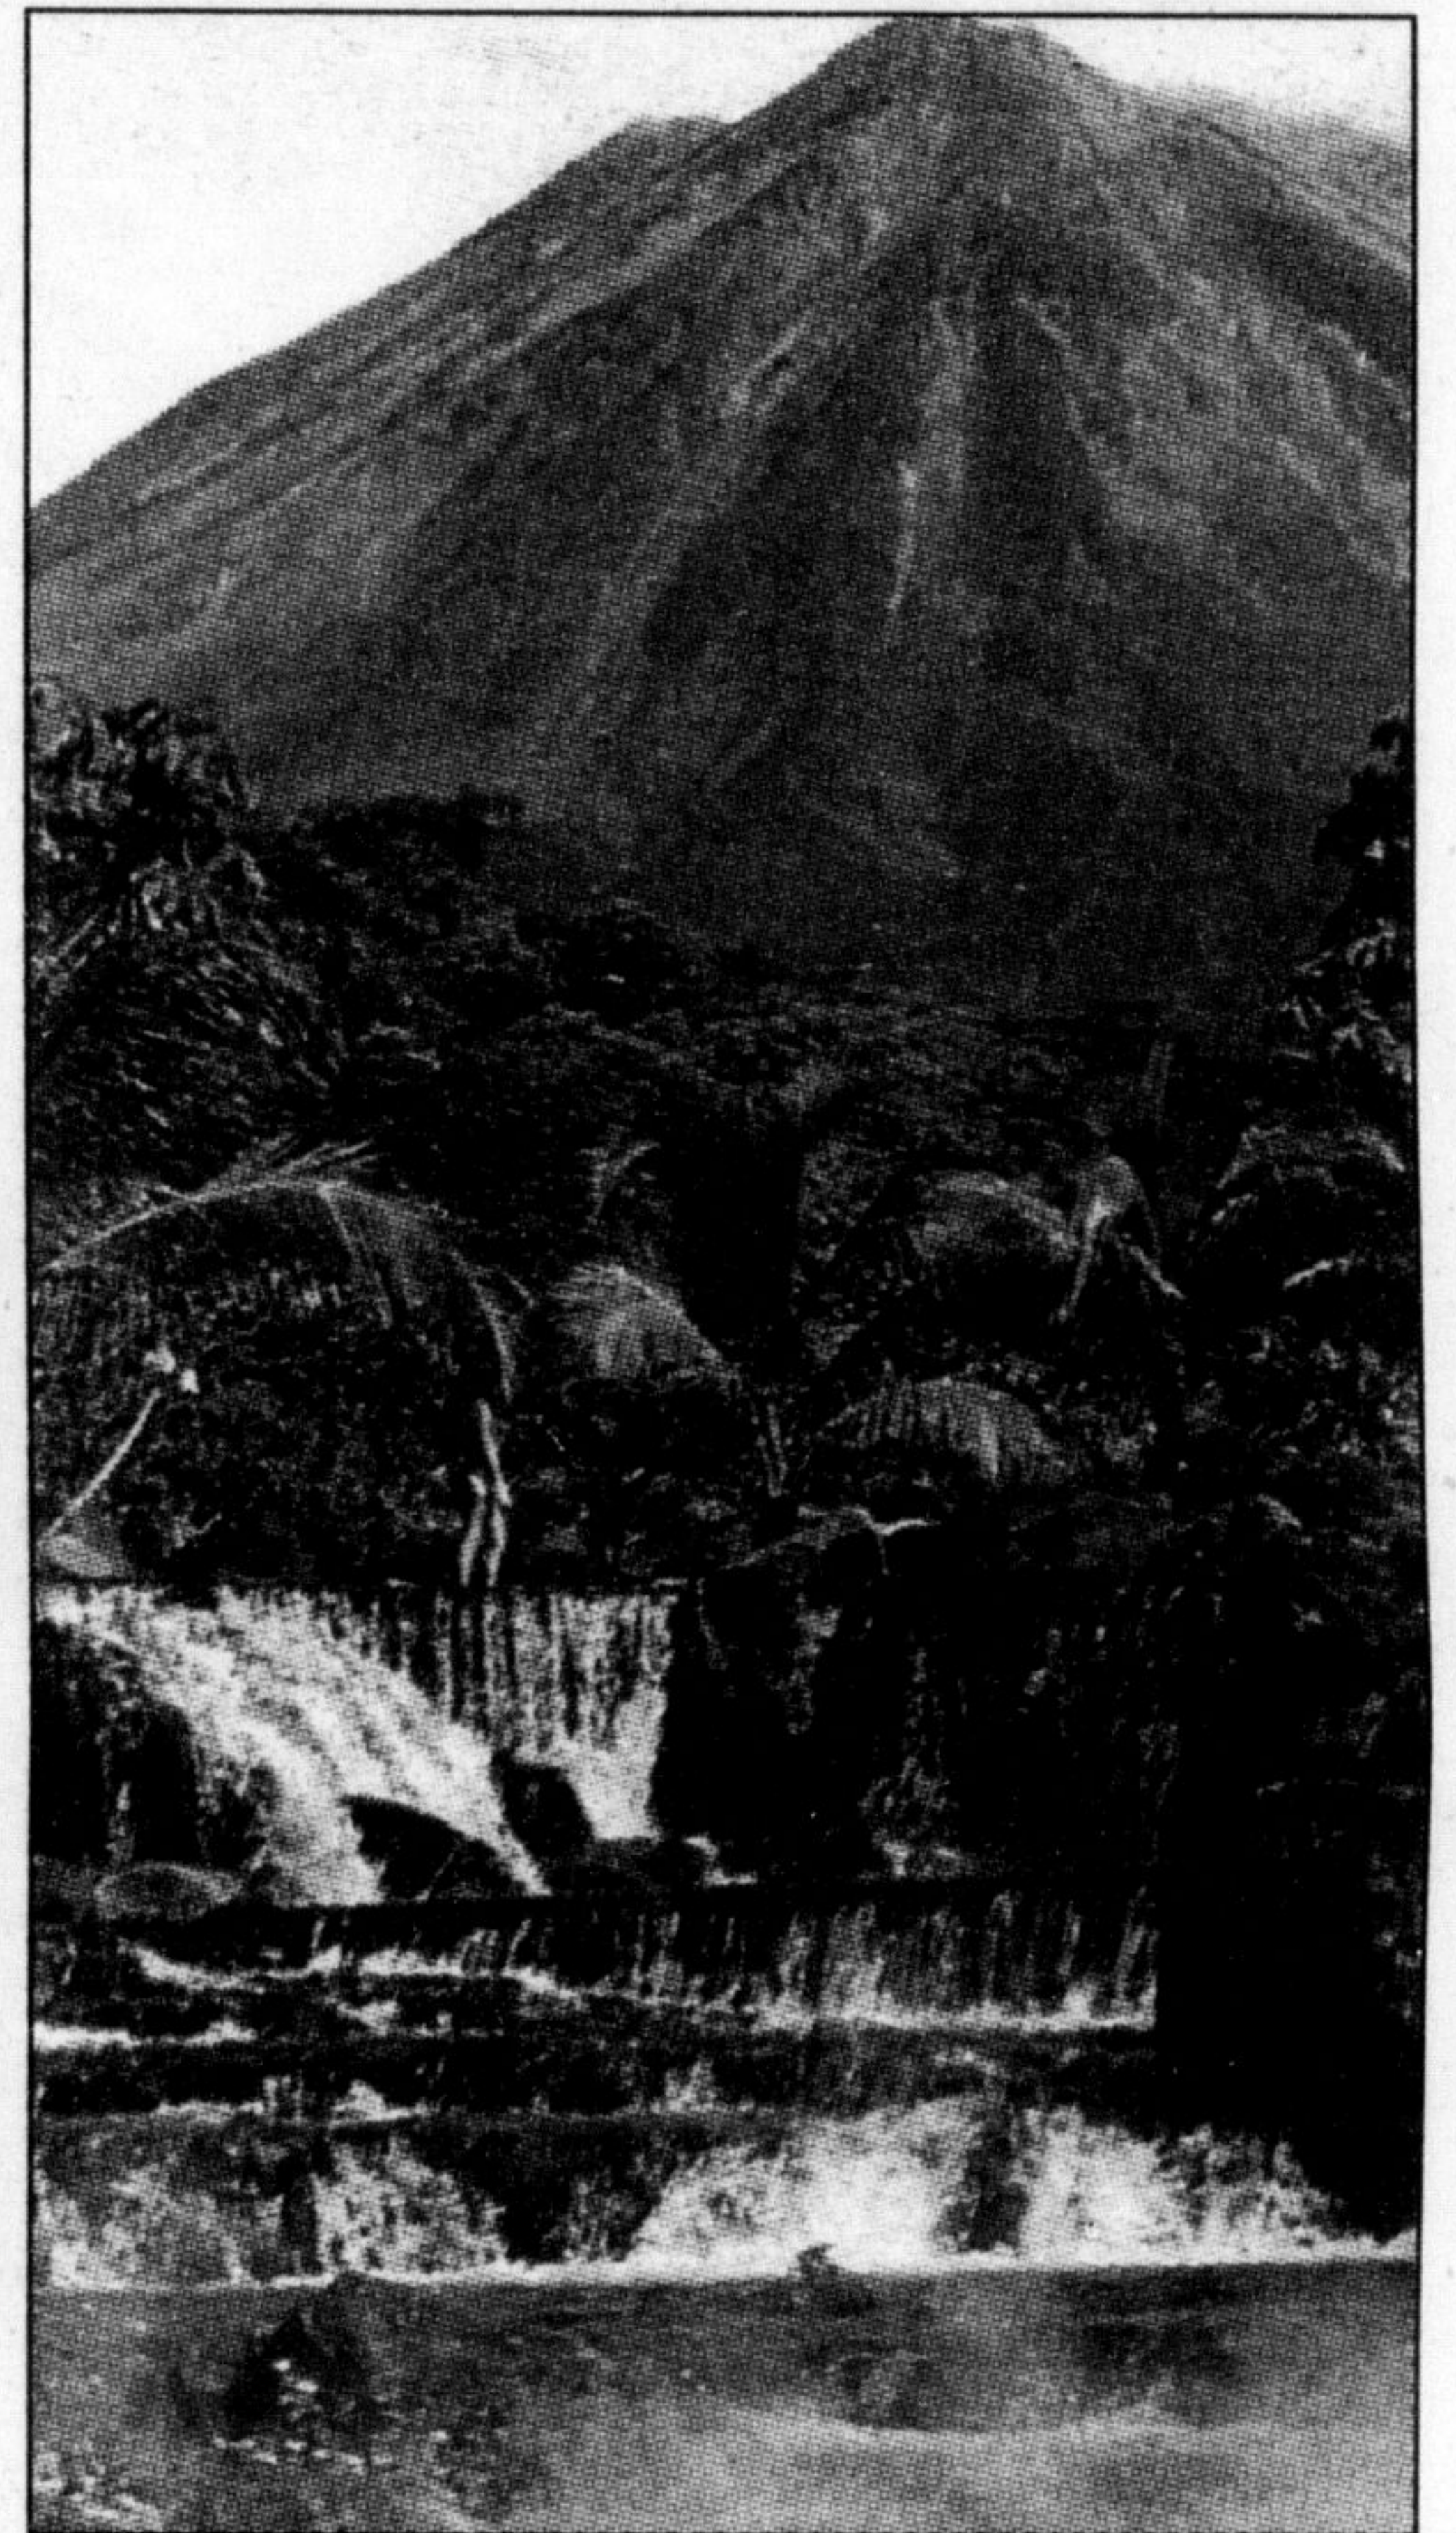

From Gatun Lake, considered the largest man-made lake on earth, we witness the awesome spectacle of the Panama Canal as, step by step, this wonder of the world lifts great ships up from the Atlantic and delivers them between two contents to the Pacific.

San Blas Islands

These gorgeous islands of rustic huts, cool palms and splendid beaches are home to the Cuna Indians whose handicrafts are renowned. The Indian women's appearance will enchant, the folklore will delight, the memory of dugout canoes welcoming the ship will endure.

Cartagena

Shop for your heart's desire, be it emeralds, platinum, leather, gold or coffee in Cartagena's tangle of narrow, twisted streets in the shadow of 17th century walls that separate the "old" and "new" cities. Haunting historical sites and rich museums add to Cartagena's timeless fascination.
