Thank You For Caring! Nurses Nurses Week May 10 - 17, 1999

It isn't one of the glamour positions in modern medicine. In fact, from its beginnings nursing has been a career of compassion and commitment more than anything else. Over time nursing has grown in sophistication and responsibility as well, and today continues to break new ground.

Nurses form a critical cornerstone of health care in Ontario today, perhaps more so than ever given cost pressures in modern medicine. Nursing combines technical expertise and honorable service to fellow human beings as few fields do. In appreciating today's nurses, we acknowledge people of integrity and honor, who give of themselves so that others are healed.

THIS MESSAGE IS BROUGHT TO YOU BY THESE COMMUNITY MINDED BUSINESSES.

CONGRATULATIONS MILTON DISTRICT HOSPITAL NURSING STAFF

We are very proud of the nursing staff of Milton District Hospital and join with them in celebrating nurses week, May 10 to 17, 1999. This is a week for the nursing staff, both registered nurses and registered practical nurses, to promote the profession of nursing. Various educational and fun activities have been planned this week.

Allendale Celebrates Nurses Week
This week the Nursing Staff at Allendale are being recognized for their role in health care. The Nurses at Allendale are members of the interdisciplinary team and embrace a holistic approach to care. Our residents and families are encouraged to be involved in all aspects to ensure individualized care is provided. Our Residents always come first and we affirm our mission that: "Our residents will enjoy as high a quality of life as possible provided by nursing staff who derive satisfaction from their work."
