Painter Newlove creates works to the beat of a very different drum

By KAREN SMITH
The Champion

When Tina Newlove set out to make a career as an artist three years ago, she never thought she would be performing with a rock band.

That's where the Campbellville painter finds herself these days — on stage creating her works alongside two dancers and another artist to the music of four band members in Tribe of One.

The Winnipeg-based group recruited Ms Newlove, 25, to the band after perusing her funky paintings of fish, birds and trees during a visit to Toronto in 1997.

The end result was professional artists, dancers and musicians bringing forth an artistic three-ring circus.

The live mix of mediums is key to the group's purpose, Ms Newlove says, and well-received by audiences.

"A lot of people have just felt inspired by the idea that all the arts are as important as the other," she says. "Each part is integral to the whole thing."

Dancing on canvass

While the dancers capture the rhythm of the music with movement, Ms Newlove dances in her own way on canvass.

One of her paintings sold to an audience member for $200, recalls the former Milton District High School student.

"People really get into the whole idea and they want a part of the night," she says.

"The creativity is just flowing. The audience watches a blank canvass turn into something right before their eyes."

Congratulations Father Mark Curtis

On June 8th, 1999, Feast of St. Columba, at St. James the Apostle Church, Guelph, Bishop Ralph Spence, Bishop of the Anglican Diocese of Niagara, received the Priesthood of Father Mark Curtis into the Anglican Church of Canada. Father Mark was appointed Priest-Chaplain to St. Mildred's-Lightbourn School, Oakville, in February, 1999. He has also been appointed by Bishop Spence to assist at St. Simons Church, Oakville, effective the end of June, 1999. Special thanks to Canon Charles Masters, Rector of St. George's, Lowville, for his spiritual guidance, direction and friendship during this transition. Thanks also to Rev. Gerry Salloum, the parishioners of St. George's, Lowville and the friends and family of Father Mark who have offered their encouragement, support and prayers. Congratulations on your Reception and new appointment.

Love and Best Wishes
