Krantz worried about funding

• from TOWN on page 1

Malboeuf.

Due to provincial downloading, ambulance services are funded through a 50-50 cost split between Halton and the province.

But Mr. Krantz questioned the Region's ability to persuade the province to lay down more money for Milton.

"Unfortunately, we are very much at the mercy of the Region and the province of Ontario," he said. "If they are forced into constraints, I could only speculate that this may be one of the things they look at."

If money is tight, a tug of war for bigger, better services could break out between the north and south municipalities, speculated Mr. Krantz.

"Where are we going to fit into that on the assumption there may not be enough money to go around," he said. "I don't want to mislead anyone."

But Mr. Malboeuf said he is convinced the issue will not degenerate into a battle between the region's north and south sides.

"I believe on this issue it is not a problem," he said. "I'm very confident we will get a second ambulance."

Even the notoriously budget conscious Burlington councillor John Taylor is on side with the proposal, said Mr. Malboeuf.

"I almost needed a defibrillator when he said, 'I'm not against spending the money if we need to,'" he joked. "Taylor is fully supportive of having an ambulance up here." Currently, ambulance services from Oakville or Mississauga are called in to transport patients from Milton District Hospital to any other facility.

How to Avoid Costly Housing Mistakes During and After a Divorce

MILTON - Divorce is rarely easy and often means a lot of difficult decisions. One of the most important decisions is what to do about the house.

In the midst of the heavy emotional and financial turmoil, what you need most is some non-emotional, straightforward, specific information and answers. Once you know how a divorce affects your home, your mortgage and taxes, critical decisions are easier. Neutral, third party information can help you make logical, rather than emotional, decisions.

Probably the first decision is whether you want to continue living in the house. Will the familiar surroundings bring you comfort and emotional security, or unpleasant memories? Do you want to minimize change by staying where you are, or sell your home and move to a new place that offers a new start.

Only you can answer those questions, but there will almost certainly be some financial repercussions to your decision process. What can you afford? Can you manage the old house on your new budget? Is refinancing possible? Or is it better to sell and buy? How much house can you buy on your new budget?

To help you know what questions you should ask and how to arrive at the right answer for your specific situation, a FREE special report has been prepared by industry experts entitled "Divorce. What You Need To Know About Your House, Your Home Loan And Taxes"
