Red Ribbon Campaign set to kick off tomorrow

The official kick-off of the 1999 Red Ribbon Campaign by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) Halton will take place tomorrow at the Glen Abbey Recreation and Aquatic Centre in Oakville.

The launch — to be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. — will be an early reminder not to drink and drive over the holiday season, during which time infractions are especially prevalent.

To get the word out, 2,000 volunteers will distribute red ribbons between November 3 and January, 2000 in local shopping malls and grocery stores.

The ribbons can be tied to vehicle antennas or outside rear-view mirror to show that you support safe and sober driving throughout the year.

Red Ribbon coin boxes will also be distributed to many business locations to give people the opportunity to make a donation and take a ribbon.

On hand at the launch will be Oakville Mayor Ann Mulvale, who will say a few words in support of MADD Halton and the invaluable work of its members.

Also on hand will be officers from the OPP. Halton Regional Police will bring along the RIDE van donated by MADD Halton from the proceeds of last year's Red Ribbon Campaign.

Statistics staggering

The statistics involving drunk driving are staggering.

Forty-five Canadians are killed and more than 125 are injured daily in alcohol-related crashes.

In addition, the direct and indirect costs of alcohol related crashes are estimated to be close to $8 billion annually.

Approximately 40 per cent of all traffic fatalities are alcohol related and it's estimated that one in eight drivers on weekends are impaired.

More than 80,000 charges of impaired driving are laid each year.
