

High Speed Internet For Milton? Not Yet!

But what will this mean for the Business & Residential Community?

The buzzword lately is no longer the Internet, but now the push is for High Speed Connectivity for the Internet. There are a number of options available currently in selected areas, these are ISDN, Cable, ADSL and soon on the horizon, low level Satellite! But for Milton's residential and business population, an affordable and proven solution is ADSL

(Asymmetric Digital Subscriber Line). It is the ability to transport both voice and data on the same telephone lines currently in place at exceptional speeds at a fraction of the cost of ISDN and comparable to current dial-up connectivity rates. ADSL is a new high-speed digital data service available currently in certain areas of Toronto, Ottawa, London,

Kitchener, Waterloo, Montreal, Hull and Quebec City. Bell Sympatico is seeking interest and input from interested communities to take part in continuing and ongoing installations of ADSL beyond these current serviced areas. Sunny Oasis Internet has been in communication with the Bell Sympatico Group to open up the opportunity for discussion and exploration to consider the Milton community for ADSL.

What does this mean for the present and long term goals of Milton? With the requested support of The Milton Chamber of Commerce and the backing of local businesses and residents of Milton, the benefits of ADSL would be felt immediately. Traditionally, the Internet has now been a part of our lives through the use of local dial-up at limited speeds for some time. It has always meant painfully slow line speeds therefore restricting the capabilities of its use for access. With ADSL, it will allow for exceptional upload and download speeds for file transfers (database, spreadsheets, large file documents), email delivery, on-line banking, EPS (Electronic Postal Service), web searching, audio and video conferencing, multimedia, live broadcasts (news, weather, music), entertainment and on-line shopping through the use of high speed internet. The ability to utilize high-speed information and communications exchange regionally, nationally and globally will place Milton in the forefront of this type of Technology for the present and the future. With this infrastructure in place, it also ensures advances in this technology and information service that Milton will stay ahead of its neighboring towns and communities, guaranteeing prosperous and enriched growth for the future.

As Milton begins its first major growth in over a decade, it is imperative that not only the established business community be wired with ADSL but also, the current, and new residential communities now being developed...all should be furnished with this growing technology.

Failure to recognize the long term benefits of high speed Internet may prove to have a measured impact on local commerce and keep Milton far behind other communities, who if given time, will surely achieve this same goal to bring home ADSL.
