The Silent Killer

Carbon Monoxide is a colourless, odorless gas that you can't see, taste or smell. It can kill you before you are even aware of it. Babies, senior citizens and people with coronary or respiratory problems are considered to be at greater risk for carbon monoxide poisoning. Please install carbon monoxide detectors on each floor of your home, especially near the sleeping areas and near the home's heating source. Finally, don't forget to change your carbon monoxide detectors' batteries regularly.
