

Former CHF chair invited to voice concerns at meeting

Conservation Halton has invited a former chair of the organization's fundraising body to present her concerns at an upcoming meeting.

Former Conservation Halton Foundation (CHF) chair Janet Mitchell can "come to the next board of directors meeting as a delegate and present any concerns she has brought up in previous correspondences," said Bob Burchett, director of conservation land services.

The invitation came after a two-hour in-camera session August 3 in which Conservation Halton (CH) members discussed letters written by Ms Mitchell.

The letters were the latest in the ongoing public controversy surrounding the dismissal of the volunteer board members of the CHF March 31.

Ms Mitchell penned two letters — an open letter • see EVERYONE on page 10

A FRESH LOOK AT GOD

Floyd McClung Jr., in his inspiring book, The Father Heart of God, introduces his theme with a poignant illustration:

"As my two children, Misha and Matthew, and I studied the painting, we experienced a feeling of great sadness. It covered a very large canvas and was painted in sweeping childlike strokes. The tall, sticklike figure topped with a huge, square-shaped head was portrayed in dark colours that conveyed a sense of coldness and harshness. The beak-like nose and great protruding arms almost made us feel as if it were a monster.

It was titled Man but according to one of the guides at Amsterdam's Stedelijk Museum, the original name of Karel Appel's work was My Father.

The illustration lends itself to some thoughtful consideration. What kind of relationship did Karel Appel have with his father? Even more important, how did that affect his view of God? Did he believe in God, and if so, did he perceive Him as a loving Father?

Most people do not know God as a loving Father. They do not think of Him as someone to love and trust, someone who is worthy of their absolute loyalty and commitment. Whether a person is a Christian or not, at one time or another everyone gives serious thought to the question of who God is and what He is like.

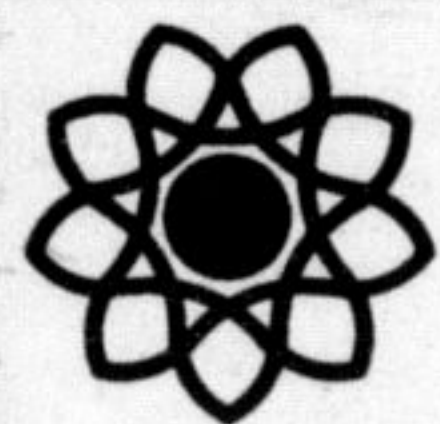

Many people long to know God personally, but imagine Him to be a remote, impersonal Being who cannot be known. Others yearn for a relationship with Him but cling to the misconception that He sits in heaven wearing a black suit and twisting His long gray beard as He glares down seeking to judge anyone who dares to smile on Sunday.

It is time to look at God in a fresh way. Often, our past hurts can colour our concept of God and how our earthly fathers may have unknowingly influenced our view of our heavenly Father. Somehow, we must put the past behind us and recognize that God loves us and will never fail us.

I believe that God has created us to be like Him, only on a smaller scale, of course! He has made us to love each other, to care for His creation responsibly, and to be secure and confident in who we are. But our selfishness and emotional hurts hold us back from being the people our Father intended us to be.

Get a fresh look at God! As a loving, Heavenly Father, He is waiting for you! Visit a local church this Sunday and enjoy the warmth of His embrace. Consult the directory below for service times and details.
