Milton welcomes new officer

Halton Regional Police will welcome one new constable to Milton today during a swearing-in ceremony.

Jeffrey Knapp is one of 12 new constables who will take their oaths of office at a 2 p.m. presentation in Council Chambers at the Halton Regional Centre in Oakville.

The officers will be sworn in by William T. Phipps before being presented with their badges by Police Chief Ean Algar and chairman of the Halton Regional Police Services Board, Jack Brewer.

Mr. Knapp was born and raised in Hamilton. He studied communications at Brock University before transferring to Mohawk College for the law and security/police foundations program. He graduated in May.

Over the last several years, Mr.

Knapp has worked for the Mount Hope Airport and the City of Hamilton. In addition, he has worked in a number of elementary schools, tutoring students in English language skills. Mr. Knapp is active in sports and plans to finish his degree at Brock University.

He's assigned to uniform patrol.

Empty bottles wanted

Residents can give to a worthy cause as well as clear space in the garage by donating their empty beer bottles to the Canadian Diabetes Association in the Ninth Annual Beer Store Campaign.

To participate, simply unload your empties at Milton's Millside Street location tomorrow.

Almost $2 million has been raised over the past eight years through the province-wide event.

This year, the goal is to raise $210,000 by collecting 2.1 million empty beer bottles or cans — the equivalent of 87,500 cases of empties.

Today, about 2 million Canadians have been diagnosed with diabetes, and it's suspected many more have the disease but don't yet know it.

The risk of heart attack, stroke, kidney disease, blindness and amputation increase with the onset of diabetes.

Though there's no cure, the illness can often be managed with the help of insulin, proper diet and exercise.
