✓ Taking flight

Milton District High School students display the wood and foam radio-controlled aircraft they built over a four-week period in Mr. Davies' grade 10 design technology class. After test flights, the students hope to equip it with a camera for aerial photos of the school.

Students make the dean's list

Students at college for deaf

Two students from Milton have been named to the dean's list at the National Technical Institute for the Deaf, a college of Rochester Institute of Technology, for the fall quarter.

Sheila Corbett, studying art and computer design, and Lisa Dressler, a social work and pre-baccalaureate student, achieved the list earning a grade point average of 3.4 or higher.

The two students are among nearly 200 who made the dean's list this year of the school's 1,100 students.
